Believed Von Schleicher and Nazi Chief Will Share Power in Germany

BERLIN, July 26.—(UP)—Mod-ified martial law was lifted in Berlin and Brandenburg today as politicians saw in a government "deal" the possibility that Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, two-fisted militarist, and the dapper Adolf Hitler, Nazi chief, might share power over Germany.

HITLERISM ENDORSED

Chancellor Lifts Two Year Old Ban on Nazis Holding Office in Prussia

Civil authorities held executive power and police control. The ban on Newspapers inflamed for a decade a general strike and criticizing the military was not removed.

Hitlerism was endorsed today in a declaration by 51 university professors, including the Nobel prize physicist, Dr. Philipp Lenard of Heidelberg.

"We expect from national socialist leadership," the declaration said, "purification of public life and the salvage of the German people. We are determined to cooperate."

Von Papen, secure in his position as Reich's commissioner in Prussia, through a favorable supreme court decision, lifted a two year old ban on Nazis holding office in Prussia. The socialists had barred Hitler's men through a decree prohibiting "members of parties inimical to the state from participating in the government."

Nazis thus were able to fill the jobs held by socialists until Von Papen seized control of Prussia. Also hundreds of Hitler's men holding office without revealing their fascist connection were able to announce publicly their Hitler allegiance.

Although Von Schleicher's power in the Reich is considered entirely favorable to restoration of the monarchy, this question had not assumed great importance in the campaign for the reichstag elections to be held Sunday.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

are promising to 34 per cent, a 31 per cent rally in December. The moratorium a year ago brought a temporary 30 per cent rise.

After each rally there was a reaction that dropped prices on major stocks even lower than they had been.

One who seeks reasons for the recent sustained rise may find many events which may fill his needs. They include:

Increases in commodity prices. The increase includes chiefly the prices paid for the country's agricultural products, the foundation of the farmer's prosperity, which in turn is believed to be the basis of national prosperity.

Shattered, but numerous reports from all over the country of factories resuming operations, or speeding up a bit after long layoffs, or operation with skeleton crews.

Reports that the reconstruction finance corporation is functioning more effectively.

Indications of more liberal issues of currency, the result of the Glass-Borah act which permits national banks to issue notes with government bonds instead of gold as security.

The approved railroad merger plans calling for consolidation of most eastern roads into four lines, eliminating much duplication of costs, but also eliminating many workmen, which would result later in adverse reaction.

Easy with which government loans, either in bonds or in short term notes, have been floated recently, refuting the theory that "reluctant" policies would result in "lack of confidence" in all securities.

FITTS DENIES REPORT HE HAD DROPPED DEAD

the world who spread the report, or who would do it," he added.

The district attorney added that he had not been to Malibu Beach for more than a year.

One newspaper was called by a man purporting to be George Contreras, veteran deputy in the sheriff's office, and unfriendly to Fitts since he was removed from command of the district attorney's liquor squad.

Contreras, on the other hand, was awakened from his sleep to obtain a denial that he had touched a telephone all night long.

Another newspaper was called by a person claiming to be William Gregory, Fitts' brother-in-law, and given a fearful "eyewitness" account of the sudden collapse and death of the prosecutor.

URGES B. & P. W. TO SEE OWN STATE FIRST

Seymour Hastings, radio speaker on "Historical California" for the Pacific Electric railway and Motor Transit stages, yesterday entertained members of Santa Ana Business and Professional Women's club when he expounded his gospel of See Your Own State First at the club luncheon in Ketter's gold room.

Introduced by Mrs. Myrtle Robinson, the speaker conducted his audience upon a general "ramble" from one easily accessible point of beauty and historical interest of the Southland to another, describing scenes and points of interest to be seen even upon the briefest of trips, together with bits of unusual information regarding the country.

The tremendous earth fault which explains the long line of hot springs including those of the San Jacinto mountain region, was discussed in and describing this section of the Southland, the speaker told of the great age of the mountain ranges as deduced by scientists.

While many of those present were familiar with Big Bear and Arrowhead scenes which he described, the country beyond was new territory for them, and he made it sound most fascinating with its history of placer mining in the days of "Lucky" Baldwin, evidences of which remain to intrigue the visitors of today. Among these mementoes of the past might be mentioned Baldwin lake itself, a purely artificial body of water resulting from the mining industries.

Mrs. Marshall Northcross told of attending the recent meeting of Los Angeles Business and Professional Women's club where, in her capacity vice-president of the Southern district, she had the honor of conducting the first formal installation of officers ever held by the organization. On the night in question, the Los Angeles club took a vote on the proposed merger of the California Federation B. & P. W. and the League of Business and Professional Women, with the result that the members were in unanimous favor of the consolidation.

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

INFLATION

Those tears shed by the Administration over the Glass-Borah currency inflation law were not very salty.

Public statements were issued to make it appear that the Treasury opposed anything that snatched of money based alone on Government bonds.

Inwardly there was contentment that they would be able to have this implement handy for future use if they need it.

Meanwhile they have devised a private scheme for keeping it under control.

The Treasury department makes its own laws. Its financial methods and power are so complicated it can get away with nearly anything.

The Glass-Borah law was intended to take the currency matter out of its hands. That will not be the case.

The Treasury has a hundred ways of making national banks do what it wants. The law says national banks can issue a billion dollars outside the jurisdiction of the Federal Reserve. They will not issue a dollar without Treasury approval.

The banks will be satisfied to go along now because they do not need new money. They are already loaded down with it.

If the time comes when the Administration thinks more money is needed, it can dust the bankers off and give them a sandwich of new bills without advertising the fact around the world.

The man behind the thing is supposed to be Eugene Meyer, governor of the Reserve Board. He would like to see it used to create a unified banking system. That is what he has been driving at in many devious ways for some time.

There are indications that Secretary Mills is not so keen about the idea. He will have the upper hand in working it out.

The White House probably will be required to referee between these two all summer. Mills has the inner track now.

The Treasury showed its hand by its peculiar opposition to the bill. For weeks after the Senate proposal was made it said nothing. Then it made known its opposition in a very quiet way.

The President is signing it treated it as an inconspicuous fly in the healing ointment of his Home Loan Mortgage setup.

It appears certain the Administration is not going in for currency inflation any time in the future. Its major efforts will probably continue along the credit inflation line.

The Glass-Borah bill is hardly big enough for any strong inflationary movement. Its billion is only a drop in the bucket of money circulation.

CONSOLIDATION

There is some inside talk in Administration circles about using the R. F. C. to push along the Big Four trunk line consolidation plan. Otherwise the plan will grow whiskers waiting for better times.

Most officials privately think it is too big a financing job for the R. F. C. They believe nothing will be done, perhaps for years.

It would be impossible to arrange refinancing now in any private way.

The announcement of the I. C. C. endorsement of the scheme was considered another timely Hoover political boost. The I. C. C. is supposed to be a judicial body, away from political influence, but Republican members understood the favorable political effect to be created by their action.

There is no indication that the White House brought any direct pressure to bear on the commission.

R. F. C.

There is rebellion within the R. F. C. over its policy of blind secrecy.

Some members of the board are trying to bring about a change so the Corporation can be put in a better light publicly. So far it has been acting in a hermetically sealed room. Recent widespread criticism has been irritating.

No member wants to make the loans public, but they think a publicity man should be appointed to see that the Corporation's side of the story gets out whenever possible.

That may be done shortly.

NOTES

The State department is showing no interest whatever in the Ottawa Imperial conference. . . . They think the Britons will not do us much damage. . . . A White House sandwich sometimes works wonders. . . . A publisher and his more famous and daring wife were recently guests at the Executive Mansion. . . . The publisher had just released a book telling why the President could not be re-elected and containing some unusually strong assertions against Mr. Hoover. . . . After his White House visit the publisher recalled the book for toning down in at least two particulars. . . . A new "Merry-Go-Round" about Washington is being written. . . . It is even more bitter than the first and equally disrespecting of facts. . . . Release is expected before October first. . . . Liberal Republican LeGuardia will announce for Roosevelt after Labor Day. . . . The Republicans are planning a strong campaign of ridicule against the Roosevelt reforestation suggestion. . . . One angle of it is: Whenever a Democrat asks a Republican about the depression, the reply will be universally: "Aw go plant a tree." . . .

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

Sidelight on municipal economy. A New Yorker recently advertised his expensive car for sale. A youngish man who answered the ad liked the car and said he would buy it but wanted to know if the seller would give him terms. The seller replied that he might if the buyer could give satisfactory information about his job and his income. From that point the dialogue went something like this: "Who do you work for?" "The city."

"What's your job?" "Head of the Department of Such and Such."

"What do you do?" "Oh, I go to the office about an hour a day and read the newspaper."

"How much do you get?" "$10,000 a year."

"It sounds like a good job. Hasn't the Seabury investigation made any difference?"

"Well, sometimes I stick around for a couple of hours a day now in case something happens."

ELECTION

Local business and financial interests are not much worried about the election. They believe that business will be "safe" with either candidate. Roosevelt's reported radicalism is not taken seriously and his chances are considered good.

A high percentage of voters in the financial district are still on the fence about their personal votes. Many of them are waiting for Hoover's acceptance speech to make up their minds. The hope here is that his remarks will be pro-her but strongly anti-saloon.

Quite a few Stock Exchange members would like to vote for Roosevelt but feel they cannot do so until they know what the Democratic platform means by government regulation of the Exchange. They feel that inside regulation which has been and is being done should be drastic enough to satisfy critics. Roosevelt would pick up a number of votes if reassurance could be given on this point.

RAILROADS

I. C. C. approval of the four-road consolidation plan (predicted in this column for June 25th) is regarded locally as an important victory for the railroads. In essence it gives the roads exactly what they wanted. Much comment is heard to the effect that the matter is in the nature of a show-down and that the railroads have told the I. C. C. just where to get off.

Informed observers state that the immediate benefits of the plan are entirely psychological. It will be several years before the roads will reap tangible rewards.

BANKS

The drop in loans reported last week by New York district member banks is largely traceable to a clearing out of bankers' acceptances. Total loans and investments of banks in the New York district have declined by $62 million dollars since the first of the year. Deflation is still not entirely checked.

Several local banks are discouraging advertising campaigns by companies which owe the money. This is particularly true of companies now operating at a loss. The bankers' viewpoint on advertising has caused several violent arguments with company officials but the banks hold the whip hand at present.

R. F. C.

Local estimates hold that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will have to be financed to the tune of from $500 million to a billion dollars more before the end of September. . . .

GOLD

Several New York banks are again importing gold from France. One in particular received a shipment of ten million dollars from its Paris branch last week against which dollar credits will be drawn. The franc has fallen to the point where such operations are profitable.

Advice from abroad interprets this situation as an indication that conditions in France are progressively on the down side.

STORY OF ARCTIC ON REVIEW HOUR

"Thirty Years in the Golden North," by Jan Welzl, will be the book to be reviewed by Mary Burke King on the Book Review hour of KREG at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow.

The story is most interesting and informative, according to those who have read it and as shown in the enthusiastic foreword by Karel Capek, who says that he used to look forward to the evening paper containing the installments of the memoirs of Jan Welzl of Zabreh, the Czech adventurer and chief of the new Siberian islands, which are now gathered in book form.

"I have read plenty of books on Arctic travels," says Capek. "But I have found none so informative or revealing as the garrulous chatter of old Jan Welzl."

THIRD JURY IN LIQUOR CASE FAILS TO AGREE

For the third time since April 23, when Rufus Nieblas, Santa Ana Mexican, was arrested on a charge of possession of liquor, a jury in the Santa Ana police court yesterday afternoon failed to reach a verdict in his case.

The first jury was unable to agree. The city tried the case again, calling in a special panel. After spending a night in a hotel, this jury was hopelessly hung, 11 to 1, for conviction and was dismissed.

Yesterday, attorneys finished their argument and the case went to the third jury at 11 a. m. Unable to agree, it was discharged shortly before 6 o'clock last night. The jury stood seven to five at the end, it is reported.

Nieblas was arrested after he is asserted to have sold a gallon of whiskey to J. F. McWilliams, Santa Ana police officer, as the officer stood in the door of his home. Other police officers saw the transaction and marked money was used to make the purchase. All this was brought out at the trial, but so far as a conviction was concerned, it apparently was not sufficient.

Politically Speaking

BY HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Calif., July 26. — (UP) — Political campaigns brightened up in California this week, following adjournment of congress.

Every member of the California delegation hurried back home to join the free-for-all. Each one has opposition—that is, with the exception of Congressman Phil D. Swing of El Centro and Harry L. Englebright of Nevada City. Swing is retiring and Englebright is unopposed.

Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, arriving at San Francisco, found his campaign already mapped out for him. It was officially opened by Joseph R. Knowland, Oakland publisher, over the radio.

Congressman Joe Crall, opposing Shortridge for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator, swung into the speaking tour of Northern California. He made stops at Marysville, Chico, Willows, Oroville and Colusa, and reported enthusiastic receptions.

All doubt as to William Gibbs McAdoo's personal stand on prohibition was removed this week when he said to a Democratic luncheon gathering in Los Angeles:

"I stand upon the Democratic platform."

As the Democratic platform is dripping wet, it may be safely assumed that McAdoo has about-faced on his previous bone-dry attitude.

A broad grin as if he were thoroughly amused at the political antics in California, was former Governor C. C. Young's greeting to Sacramento friends on a stopover en route to his home in Palo Alto.

Apparently in excellent health, Governor Young said that neither the beauty of the Mediterranean nor the romance of the Riviera could make him or his family forget they were Californians. With him were Mrs. Young, their two daughters, Barbara and Lucy, and his sister, Miss Lena Young.

Political Gossip: Two new initiative petitions for the November ballot have been filed. . . . One would virtually prohibit chain stores and theaters by imposing drastic licenses. . . . Another would let the people vote again on leasing tide lands to Huntington Beach for oil drilling purposes. . . .

Speaking of economy, how about the "sponsor booklet"? . . . There were 2,600,000 printed this year for the state. . . . And how many are ever read? . . . Simon P. Lubin moved his state bureau of commerce from Sacramento to San Francisco. . . . And thereby brought down the wrath of both Sacramento newspapers upon his head. . . . Governor Rolph's only comment to the state editors: "You can catch more flies with sugar than you can with vinegar."

WILL PRESENT REQUEST TO SUPERVISORS

Following a conference of city officials of the five cities in the northern part of the county, which was held at Fullerton last night on the subject of securing a just apportionment of gas tax funds for cities, it was agreed to request the supervisors at their meeting on August 2 for a percentage of this tax, and to call a meeting of officials of all cities of the county next Friday to take united action in presenting the request to the county board.

Action agreeing to ask for a portion of the money for the cities followed a meeting of the councilmen of cities of the third district, with William Schumacher, supervisor of that district, at Fullerton city hall during which such a change in distribution of the tax money was discussed.

Following the meeting of councilmen from Anaheim, Fullerton, Placentia, Brea and La Habra, a committee composed of the mayors of each city met and agreed to call George F. Holder, city attorney of Anaheim, and Albert Launer, city attorney of Fullerton, draw up a tentative resolution requesting an allotment of the gas tax and vehicle funds, which amount to a little less than $400,000 annually in Orange county, and prepare some kind of plans whereby this fund may be shared by cities on either a population or automobile registration percentage basis.

Meeting Thursday
On Thursday all cities of the county are to be asked to meet and present these plans and form some kind of policy whereby joint action may be had in connection with the request to the supervisors.

It is suggested that the cities will ask 32 1-2 percent of the total amount the county receives from the state. The suggestion came from a proposal made by Councilman Leo Sheridan, of Anaheim, and is based on a desire for one half of 65 percent of the tax which is paid by the residents of the cities.

The meeting Thursday is to be held in the Santa Ana city hall according to Mayor W. L. Hale, of Fullerton, chairman of the committee. Considerable discussion preceded the appointment of the committee of mayors or their representatives, during which those attending discussed with Supervisor Schumacher their desire for a portion of the funds to which they felt they were justly entitled.

Schumacher Position
Schumacher held to the theory that there could be no objection to cities being privileged to spend their own money, under jurisdiction of the state commissions in charge of road work, but suggested he thought 35 per cent of the total, an adequate amount.

Schumacher took the position during the argument that if the cities demand and receive this money, it will mean a levy of taxes will have to be made to care for county roads. Proponents of the plan to let the cities share in the fund declare, however, that there will be sufficient funds for maintenance of county roads without any tax rate increases even if the fund is shared, and that by elimination of some work not needed in these times, that a reduction could be made in the present road tax rate.

Schumacher also declared that the supervisors would grant the request of the cities, since he asserted it required a majority of four out of five to carry such a change of policy on the part of the board. Persons favoring the distribution of a just share of this fund to the cities point out, however, that some years ago when an appropriation was made for South Main street, when Schumacher and Supervisor John Mitchell voted against the measure, an appellate court decision held that a three to two vote was sufficient.

Court Ruling
At that time a suit was instituted in Schumacher's district to prevent the payment of the money for use on South Main street, on the grounds of an insufficient vote, it is recalled, but the state appellate court ruled that three votes were all that was necessary.

Schumacher last night said he favored the cities having jurisdiction over a certain percentage of the funds, provided the plans are so executed that the cities will have the funds prorated to them on an equitable basis. In the past, it is recalled by leaders in the move for distribution of part of the fund to the cities, Schumacher has been the stumbling block in efforts to obtain a definite share of the funds for use by the cities.

SAYS COUNTY PAYING MORE THAN REQUIRED

L. D. Reynolds, who has a contract with the board of supervisors to provide the county with cementaceous gravel, appeared before the supervisors with his attorney, L. L. Blodgett today and charged the road department with disregarding the contract.

Reynolds, through his attorney, claimed that on two jobs the county is securing gravel from other sources at a higher price than is paid to him under his contract and is employing outside trucks to transport it to the job.

Highway Superintendent Nat Neff denied that he is disregarding the contract and pointed out that the contract with Reynolds calls for him to supply only cementaceous gravel and does not mention quarry waste. It is the latter named material, he claims, that is being used on the jobs in question.

The jobs on which the contract is being disregarded, according to Reynolds, is the Santiago Canyon road job and work on Ocean avenue.

An old contract under which Reynolds formerly supplied the county with gravel, gave him the exclusive right to supply all gravel used and to haul it from the pit to the job. Recently he signed a new contract with the county that was more liberal in its terms.

The new contract included a clause that gave the county the privilege of purchasing its gravel at any place that was most advantageous but gave Reynolds the exclusive right to haul it after its purchase.

No action was taken on the matter by the board. Chairman John Mitchell informed Reynolds that the matter would be taken up with Neff and the district attorney.

CITY TO SELL FRANCHISE FOR PHONE SERVICE

The city clerk last night was instructed by the Santa Ana city council to advertise for bids for the sale of the telephone franchise in Santa Ana for a period of 50 years.

The present franchise, held by the Southern California Telephone company, expires on August 29 of this year. It was a 20-year franchise.

Bids will be advertised for immediately and will be opened by the city council on August 13. No bidder, other than the Southern California Telephone company is expected.

The franchise will be approximately the same as the one existing, calling for the right of the telephone company to do business in Santa Ana for two percent of the gross receipts of the company.

Earl Morrow, district manager, said today that in the past 20 years the company had paid the city approximately $45,000, but that during the first year or two of the life of the franchise the amount was no more than $700. Santa Ana has grown in leaps and bounds since that time, and as a result, the company now pays the city approximately $5000 annually, he said.

BANDITS GET $20 FROM GAS STATION MAN

On the pretense of looking at tire patches, two bandits early last night walked into the service station operated by Car Van Steenberg at Midway City and at the point of a pistol forced him to lie down while they robbed his cash register of $20 in silver and bills, the sheriff's office was told last night.

The men came to the service station in a small car, the numbers on which had been smeared with mud. They warned Van Steenberg to lie still for several minutes, to give them time to get away before the alarm was given.

One of the bandits was tall, the other short. The short man held a small revolver in his hand when the two entered the place and seemed to be the leader of the two, Van Steenberg told officers. The holder is the second for Van Steenberg this year. He was robbed in a similar manner last April.

NEW CITY TAXI ORDINANCE IS ADOPTED HERE

The Santa Ana city council last night gave passage to the new taxi cab ordinance which had been given first reading a week ago and which is expected to clear the taxi cab situation in Santa Ana.

The new ordinance becomes a law in 30 days.

In connection with taxi matters, the council expects to give some answer in the near future to the latest request made by J. H. Wilson, operator of the Home Taxi company, for a city license to do business here.

Mayor Paul Witmer appointed a committee composed of A. C. Hasenjaeger, E. G. Warner, city councilmen, and City Attorney Clyde Downing as a committee to make an investigation and report back to the council in one week.

Wilson has been operating here for the past several months without a permit. He has applied for one repeatedly, but the council has refused it. He has been arrested for operating without a permit, but on two different occasions, the court has ruled that the city ordinance was unconstitutional, so Wilson continues to operate without a license.

The application now on file with the board is asked under the old ordinance and not the new.

Police News

Leonardo Flores, 32, charged with being drunk and disturbing the peace, was booked at the county jail yesterday afternoon to serve a five-day sentence imposed. He was arrested at La Habra, where he lives, several days ago by William Tremaine, constable.

W. Crumrine, 22, was lodged in the county jail last night by Newport Beach officers. He is booked on a drunk charge.

GROUARD NEW MEMBER OF S. A. POLICE FORCE

Franklin L. Grouard, former commander of the Santa Ana post of the American Legion, was last night appointed a member of the Santa Ana police department. The appointment was made by the city council at the request of Chief Floyd Howard.

At the same time the council ratified the appointment of Joe Ryan, who has been working for the past several days. Ryan is a former constable of Santa Ana township and is well known in police circles of the county.

The resignation of A. P. Bowden, a member of the department for the past several years was received and accepted by the council.

With the appointment of Ryan and Grouard, and the acceptance of the resignations of Bowden and of T. H. Bond and Len Morris, the latter two a week ago, changes in the police department so far as personnel are concerned are completed, according to Chief Howard.

The changes were made in order to conform with the budget for the coming year, it was pointed out, and not due to any inefficiency of the men who resigned.

Ryan has been working for several days, but Grouard will not start to work until August 1, due to the fact that two of the three men leaving the department have their vacation periods coming to them before they actually leave the department.

Councilmen Asked To Speak Louder

Jules Markel, local contractor, appeared before the city council last night with a complaint that the council members did not talk loud enough for the "audience" to hear.

He stated that many persons interested in their city government came to the council chambers to hear what was going on and left without learning anything, or with the feeling they had suddenly become deaf. He asked that in the interest of good government the council raise its voices.

A motion was made and passed, calling for louder motions and discussions, but it was seconded so low that the audience didn't hear it.

WILL APPLY FOR SHARE OF COTTON GOODS

Plans for securing and distributing a portion of the cotton materials to be provided the unemployed and needy by the government were made yesterday afternoon at a meeting of welfare and Red Cross workers held in the office of County Welfare Director Byron V. Curry.

The Federal government has appropriated 500,000 bales of cotton to be made into materials for distribution to the needy this year and yesterday's conference was called for the purpose of making plans and estimating the needs of Orange county and to plan a method of distributing the cloth when it is received.

According to the estimate of relief workers attending the conference yesterday there probably will be 7500 applications for cotton materials of some sort during the winter. It was decided to recommend that the government allotment to Orange county consist of shirts, sheeting, towels, pillow cases, prints and thread.

Distribution of this material will be handled under the same management as prevails in the distribution of government flour. Two warehouses, one in Fullerton for the north half of the county, and another in Santa Ana will be utilized. The materials will be received in the warehouse and be distributed to needy families through the Red Cross and county welfare department.

Relief workers attending the conference yesterday were:

Mrs. Elizabeth McFadden, Fullerton; Mrs. Mona Price, Mrs. R. W. Balch, Anaheim; Mrs. Ferris Kelley, San Juan Capistrano; Mrs. H. P. Suttin, La Habra; Mrs. Pearl Jones, Huntington Beach; Mrs. Ruth Melser, Seal Beach; Thos. E. Pickering, Placentia; John Sanks, La Habra; Mrs. C. C. Violett, Garden Grove; Roy L. Tenants Object To Dance Hall

A report to the effect that so much noise and disturbance is made at dances staged at Third and Birch streets, that tenants in the apartment owned by A. J. Visel at that location are threatening to move out, was filed last night with the city council, together with a request that the noise be stopped.

The matter was referred to the Chief of Police, who will conduct an investigation of the dance, permit for which was granted by the city council several months ago.

GROWERS WILL CONFER WITH STATE OFFICER

Ranchers who have had trouble securing funds due them from commission brokers are being urged to meet at the office of the Orange County Farm Bureau at 2 p. m. Thursday. At this time C. J. Carey, chief of the bureau of marketing enforcement, a division of the state department of agriculture will meet with the farmers and hear their complaints.

This meeting is another step in the war recently declared by the Farm Bureau against unscrupulous and unreliable commission dealers in farm products, who are said to have cheated citrus growers alone of $60,000 in this county.

According to R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the Orange County Farm Bureau, there is one commission firm alone which has withheld large sums from Orange county growers. Already Flaherty has listed complaints from several growers against the firm. One grower, it is said has $3500 due him from this firm, and several have bills of $1500 or more against the same firm.

Flaherty said this morning that since the Farm Bureau launched its drive against unscrupulous commission dealers it has collected small claims ranging around $50, each, for approximately 25 members of the organization.

Carey, while here will hear complaints from growers and make a rigid investigation of their claims.

DRAWS JAIL TERM ON CHECK CHARGE

Clarence Steele, Huntington Beach, appeared yesterday before Superior Judge James L. Allen in department two, superior court, and was granted probation for a period of five years. He had previously entered a plea of guilty to a charge of writing worthless checks.

When Steele started writing checks he chose J. M. Albert as the name to sign to them. That in itself was a tactical error as Albert is a member of the present jury panel.

Granting Steele probation for five years Judge Allen ordered that he spend six months in the county jail and work at Irvin park during the period of his incarceration. One of the terms of Steele's probation is that he refrain from use of alcoholic liquor.

In granting probation, Judge Allen instructed police officers of Huntington Beach to arrest the man the first time he indulges in liquor. If he is arrested again his probation will be revoked.

Steele, it is said, has been in a state institution as an alcoholic addict.

Members of the Associated Chambers of Commerce will meet at 6:30 dinner tonight at El Portal cafe on the ocean front in Balboa. Ora Monette, well-known economist and orator, will be the principal speaker. Following the dinner, according to Harry M. May, secretary of the association, the Newport Harbor hosts will extend the customary courtesies to its guests.

Committee reports will be heard during the evening and it is expected that that particular stress will be laid on discussion of water conservation and taxation.

RESIDENT OF ORANGE FOR 57 YEARS PASSES

Miss Minerva Hayward, 75, a resident of Orange for 57 years, passed away at the home of her niece, Mrs. Lucien Flippin in Orange this morning.

Funeral services will be held from the Gillogly Funeral parlors Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, with the Rev. Earl Haney, Presbyterian pastor of Eagle Rock, officiating.

Miss Hayward came to Orange with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Hayward, from Dysart, Ia., in 1875. She had made her home with Mrs. Flippin for the past 10 years.

Survivors include one sister, Mrs. Julia Haywood, of Orange; two brothers, Elmer Hayward, of Orange, and Marion Hayward, of Van Nuys, and three nieces, Mrs. Flippin, Mrs. M. M. Fishback, of Orange, and Mrs. Jack Carner, of Santa Barbara.

CHICKEN POX IS AT HEAD OF LIST

Chicken pox led the communicable diseases in Santa Ana during the past month, 103 cases being reported, according to the monthly report of the city health department, received and filed by the city council last night.

Whooping cough was second, there being 26 cases reported. No other communicable diseases were found numbering more than seven.

The report also shows there were nine persons bitten by dogs during the month. No cases of rabies were reported.

Suggests Plan For Benefit Show

A plan to stage an Indian lore show in the Santa Ana municipal bowl, some time in August, for the benefit of the city's unemployed, was unfolded before the city council last night by William H. Shirley, of Costa Mesa.

The council agreed to look into the plans, and Mayor Paul Witmer appointed Councilmen A. C. Hasenjaeger, William Penn and E. G. Warner as a committee to make an investigation.

Shirley reported he intended to bring a number of Plute Indians to Santa Ana for the show and that he was working with the Unemployed association in connection with the project.

Council Notes

The city council received and filed a letter last night from the Newport Beach city council thanking this city for the part it played in the recent Tournament of Lights.

A committee composed of Councilmen E. G. Warner, J. L. McBride and A. C. Hasenjaeger was appointed by Mayor Witmer last night to investigate plans for a parade to be staged by the Santa Ana Theater Guild, which they asked, to advertise their "Wet Parade," a stage production to be given here on July 28. Permission to stage the parade must be procured from the board.

On recommendation of the city planning commission, the city council, last night, ordered the property at First and Franklin streets posted for change of zoning from single family residence to neighborhood business. The change was asked by Vincente M. Ballester, who expected to erect a service station on that corner. Time for the hearing of protests was set for next Monday.

Councilman J. L. McBride and City Attorney Clyde Downing were absent from last night's council meeting.

MULTIPLICITY OF TAXES HIT AVERAGE MAN

By ROBERT TALLEY
NEA Service Writer

(Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.) Every day and in almost every way, whether you realize it or not, you are paying taxes to Uncle Sam to help him raise the $1,118,500,000 in additional revenue which the recently enacted revenue act of 1932 is designed to produce for balancing the federal budget.

This total represents, on the average, about $10 a year in increased taxes for every man, woman and child in the United States—or $50 a family. These taxes have been in effect for several weeks, but it is probable even now that many persons do not realize the multiplicity of ways in which they claim toll from American pocketbooks every day. The reason for this is that many of the new levies are "manufacturer's sales taxes," in which the tax must be paid originally by the manufacturer and is therefore concealed in an increased sale price for the article.

A clear way to show the multiplicity of these new federal taxes (but by no means all of them) is to take an average day in the life of an average man. You will see that he may be called on to pay taxes to Uncle Sam many times a day:

He arises and takes his morning bath—with toilet soap, on which there is a tax of 5 per cent.

He brushes his teeth with a dentifrice—on which there is a tax of 5 per cent.

He shaves and powders his face—5 per cent tax on the shaving cream, 10 per cent tax on the talcum powder.

He has coffee and toast with his breakfast—3 per cent tax on the electricity consumed by the electric toaster and electric percolator.

He glances at his watch—to see if he is late for work—10 per cent tax on the watch, if it cost more than $2.

He drives to work in his auto—3 per cent sales tax on his auto if it is a new one, 1 cent per gallon tax on his gasoline, 1 cent a quart tax on his lubricating oil, approximately 11 per cent tax on his new tires and 15 per cent tax on his new tubes.

A spark plug falls on his way down and he stops at a garage for a new one—2 per cent tax on auto accessories and parts.

CHAMBERS AND WIFE HERE ON WAY TO INDIA

Mr. and Mrs. R. Fred Chambers have returned to Santa Ana after almost two years in the east for a short visit before leaving for their new duties in India.

Mr. Chambers will be remembered as assistant pastor to the Rev. Harry Evan Owings of the First Baptist church where he also was minister of Christian education. In August of 1930, he was married to Mrs. Irene Roach, daughter of Mrs. Clara L. Tollaro, 824 North Ross street, and soon after their wedding Mr. and Mrs. Chambers left for New Haven, Conn., where the former started his special studies in religious education at Yale university.

He completed his course in June, and on June 8 he and Mrs. Chambers left for Hartford, Conn. for a Missionary Training conference in session there. A short time in New York City followed and then they left for California, stopping en route in Princeton, Ind. for a visit with the senior Mr. and Mrs. Chambers, and again in San Francisco for the Northern Baptist convention recently in session there.

On August 21 they will sail from Los Angeles harbor on the S. S. President Coolidge, for Jorhat, Assam, India, where Mr. Chambers will take over his duties as supervisor of the high school and teachers' college, under the American Baptist Foreign Missionary society.

There are approximately 200 native boys and young men in this school and the staff of teachers who will operate under the supervision of Mr. Chambers.

NO MORE BACKACHES

Like so many other women—perhaps like yourself—Mrs. Burroughs used to suffer with severe backaches every month. Then she tried Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Shortly afterwards she wrote to us, "I believe it to be the best medicine I ever used. I sleep well, my nerves are better, my appetite is improved and I am getting stronger all the time."

HERE'S SAMPLE OF SOME!

No wonder folks get dizzy trying to keep track of Uncle Sam's new taxes! This sketch illustrates just a few of the new 1932 levies which are designed to balance the federal budget by raising additional revenue of $1,118,500,000 this year—which is about $10 for every man, woman and child in the land, or approximately $50 per family.

Arriving at his office, he sends a telegram—5 per cent tax on telegrams.

He makes a long distance telephone call—10 per cent tax on messages costing between 50 cents and $1; 15 cents on tolls between $1 and $2; 20 cents on tolls of $2 or more.

He lights a cigar—tax of 2 cents per 1000 on matches of wood, 1-2 cent per 1000 on the paper kind. He writes a check—1 cent tax on each bank check.

He mails the check—3 cent letter postage now, an increase or "postal tax" of 1 cent.

He goes to his bank and opens his safety deposit box to remove a bond which he wants to sell—10 per cent tax on rental of safety deposit boxes.

He goes to the office of a broker—who pays 5 per cent tax on his leased wire.

He sells the bond—4 cents per $100 on bond and stock transfers. With his lunch, he has a fruit sundae—6 cents per gallon tax on soda fountain slings.

In the afternoon he plays golf—10 per cent tax on golf balls, golf clubs and other sporting goods, plus 10 per cent on dues as a member of golf club if dues exceed $25 a year.

At the clubhouse he buys a bar of candy or a pack of chewing gum—2 per cent tax on candy and chewing gum.

A friend takes a picture of him in golf togs—10 per cent tax on cameras.

He returns home for a cold dinner from his mechanical refrigerator—5 per cent sales tax on the mechanical refrigerator, 3 per cent tax on the electricity it consumes.

Maybe he likes mineral or table water with his meals—2 cents a gallon tax on mineral waters or table waters costing over 12½ cents per gallon.

He turns on his radio or commutator radio-phonograph for a little music with his dinner—5 per cent sales tax on the set, 5 per cent tax on phonograph records.

He decides to go to a movie—10 per cent tax on theater tickets costing more than 40 cents. (Even if the theater manager gives him a pass, he must pay the tax to Uncle Sam.)

Leaves movie and goes to night club—when he gets his check for refreshments, service, etc., 20 per cent of this amount is arbitrarily considered an "admission" charge and taxed at 1½ cents on each 10 cents or fraction thereof (where said "admission" charge figures more than 50 cents).

After all these taxes, Mr. Taxpayer can go home and go to bed. The bed, at least, is tax free—but he will still pay 3 per cent on the electric light he uses while undressing.

1932 REVENUE ACT AVERAGES $50 PER FAMILY

In all history, there probably is no more far-reaching piece of legislation—touching the lives of so many people in so many ways every day—than the gigantic 1932 peace-time tax bill.

Nor have there been many pieces of legislation so complicated or abstruse—grammared with so many fine interpretations and hair-line distinctions.

Originally, there was a tax of 10 per cent on gold used in teeth, such gold being included in the classification of "precious metals" used for ornamental purposes. But protests by the nation's dentists resulted in this tax being rescinded several weeks after the law was passed. The law specifically exempted gold used in eyeglasses.

Soap sold for use in the kitchen or laundry is tax free, but if the same soap is sold for toilet purposes it is taxable at 5 per cent.

Likewise, there is a 10 per cent tax on boxing gloves, but no tax on punching bags. (Boxing gloves are "sporting goods"; punching bags are classed as "gymnasium equipment," which is tax free.)

Milady's furs also are taxed.

UNIVERSITY PLANS TO CUT EXPENSES

The University of California has begun an intensive survey of its expenditures, seeking ways and means to cooperate with the state administration by cutting its budget, according to word received from President Robert Gordon Sproul by the farm advisor's office, which represents the University of California and College of Agriculture in Orange county.

The problem of providing, on a reduced budget, for an increased student body and for increased demands for services from the public, particularly in agriculture, will require intensive study, it was declared.

University salary cuts affect the farm advisor's office.

Mental Breakdown Predicted for One Tenth of Citizens

PASADENA, July 26.—The old idea that genius and insanity are closely related is hit by the Human Betterment Foundation, which has been studying the facts. A few conspicuous cases of famous men who became insane are said to have confused the picture. Dr. S. J. Holmes, professor of zoology at the University of California and one of the members of the Human Betterment Foundation, studied all the geniuses about whom he could get information, and found that only one in 50 of them showed any insanity.

As against this, one in 10 of the whole population of the United States will break down at some time from mental diseases, according to the records of the Foundation. It argues, therefore, that the genius is less likely to become insane than is the ordinary man or woman.

Makes You Lose Unhealthy Fat

Mrs. Ethel Smith of Norwich, Conn., writes: "I lost 16 lbs. with my first bottle of Kruschen. Being on night duty it was hard to sleep days but now since I am taking Kruschen I sleep plenty, eat as usual and lose fat, too."

To take off fat—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a few cents—get it at McCoy Drug Co.—2 stores—or any drugstore in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the SAFE and harmless way to lose fat—your money gladly returned.

Don't accept anything but Kruschen because you must reduce safely.—Adv.

TICKET SALE FOR BENEFIT REPORTED FINE

Members of the unemployed association of Santa Ana now canvassing the local streets with Metro Hi-Jinks tickets, are being paid a small commission on the sale of each ticket, according to those in charge of the benefit show which is to be given August 9 at the high school. In many cases this small amount enables the unemployed to purchase their daily rations, and other necessities.

Sale of tickets is advancing at a rapid pace, and present figures indicate a sell out for the performance, it is said.

Rehearsals for the benefit performance were being held almost daily at the Metro studios. Several new acts were being created and the high school showing will constitute many first appearances acts.

Through the courtesy of the Putnam School of Dancing of this city, Hollywood and Beverly Hills, several new professional acts are now rehearsing for the show. Among the Santa Ana dancers of the Studios will be the Misses Jean McKamy, Goble Sisters, Lorie Ruess, Teibba Dahl, the Zimmer twins, and Master Junior Kavenagh and dainty partner, Miss Betty Blossom Goble, an original musical number of Emmett Osborne, Southland composer.

An added attraction will be an elaborate chorus of 80 juveniles in a military tap and drill number. This act is said to have very spectacular effects and costuming. The routines are under direction of Miss Burke of Whittier.

Orange Youth Is Fined As Speeder

Charged with failure to appear on a speeding ticket issued in Santa Ana on February 28, William Jones, 20, pool hall attendant at 244 North Glassell street, Orange, was arrested by Sergeant B. A. Hersey, of the city motorcycle squad yesterday.

He was taken to court immediately and Judge J. G. Mitchell sent him back to Orange to procure his operator's license.

Yesterday afternoon the youth was fined $15.00.

Suicide Victim Identity Unknown

The body of a man believed to have been J. C. Patterson, of San Diego, found in the sand at Huntington Beach several weeks ago, was buried by the county yesterday as an unidentified body.

Patterson killed himself. He drank a portion of water and cyanide, an autopsy revealed. In his vest was found a note which stated that he could not find work "so I am showing off."

In this note he stated that he was an itinerant photographer and that he had no relatives or friends on the coast. The body has been held at the Dixon funeral parlors at Huntington Beach since it was found. Coroner Earl Abbey holding up burial hoping that a more definite identification could be made, he said. No one has claimed the body.

LOOKS REVEAL 'INSIDE' OF M'GRAW OUSTER

SLIDES Lackaye Sticks With Lineup Despite Slump

Another country heard from! This time it's France. Ah, me! What would the life of a sports writer be if he didn't have a couple of good foreign correspondents to keep him posted.

The tricolor of France will fly proudly over the Olympic stadium in Los Angeles, writes Mr. Minott Saunders from Paris, "but there are no very high hopes here that it will be hoisted triumphantly on the victory staff."

Now that's really too bad, Minott. I had hopes that France would take enough time off from reparations problems to gather up a fine bunch of athletes. But they didn't, according to Mr. Saunders. He further writes:

"The French team is particularly weak, judging from performance, and if a third place is taken in any event, it will be considered quite a conquest. Our experts have no illusions about the difficulties the French athletes will encounter, especially in view of the brilliant performance registered by American teams during the past few weeks. However, they hold that some of the Frenchmen have possibilities and that the unexpected might happen as it has in other Olympic games."

WHAT! NO SPRINTERS!

From Mr. Saunders, I learn that France is so weak in the sprints that not a single man on the team will be entered in anything under the 400 meters. Not one man was produced in the final trials who could qualify, or even rate his passage to Los Angeles.

France is strongest in the middle distances," Saunders continues. "Both Sera Martin and Jean Keller are capable of good performances at 800 and 1500 meters, but Martin doesn't look so good today as he did two or three years ago when he was hitting world record speeds. If he can get back to his old form, he may spring a surprise. "Roger Rochard is picked by many as the star of the team because of his 1522 performances. He is best at 5000 meters. A youngster, Marcel Moulines, is on the team for the 400 meters. He hasn't reached championship form, but the selection body figured the competition will prove helpful for him."

STRONG IN FENCING

In some of the other competitions, France expects to be more conspicuous, especially in fencing. According to Mr. Saunders, there will be keen disappointment at home if France doesn't take the bulk of honors in this noble old sport.

"Cattiau is the outstanding personality on the French fencing team," writes Saunders. "He will be seen in both the foil and sword events. He is a worthy successor to Lucien Godard, one of the greatest of modern times who has retired from competition. Even Aldo Nadi, famous Italian professional, doesn't see a chance of Cattiau being beaten at Los Angeles."

"But the great regret of all French athletes with regard to the Olympics," continues Saunders, "is that Jules Ladoumègue, spectacular runner from Marseilles, was not chosen for the team. Ladoumègue holds claims to world records in the mile, the 1000, 2000 and 3000-meter runs. There's no disputing his amazing performances during the past year. He got into difficulties over expense transactions and after a heated controversy was disqualified by the French A. A. Ladoumègue was looked upon as the one man who could bring glory to France at Los Angeles."

CRESS AGAIN COMES FROM BEHIND, WINS

Another previously undefeated player toppled from the top of the city tennis championship standings when John Cress turned back Arno Finster in three sets, 6-0, 1-6, 9-7, at Brances Willard yesterday.

Cress won the first set at love and Finster won the next almost as easily. The deciding bracket was a dog fight. Cress swung into a 4-2 lead but Finster took three games in succession and at 5-4 needed only one more to win. Cress won on service to make it 5-5. Finster made it 6-5 in the next game and was leading 6-15 in the next game when he lost the fight.

Cress pulled the game out of the fire and square games at 6-11. Finster won his service again, then Cress carried three straight games for the match.

Other results: Greenwood defeated Rawlings, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4; Demers d. F. Bettis, 6-1, 6-2; Park d. Moon, 6-1, 5-7, 6-2; Bettis d. White, default, and Demers d. Sileback, default.

Miss Babcock Of L. A. Wins From English Net Ace

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 26.—(UP)—Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper of Oakland, Cal., . . . 3 in National rankings moved into the third round of the annual Seabright tennis tournament today when she defeated Mrs. C. E. Muhl, New York, 6-2, 6-1.

One of England's two representatives was eliminated when Joan Ridley was defeated, 6-1, 6-4, by Caroline Babcock of Los Angeles. Mrs. Elsie Goldstick Pittman of England defeated Mrs. E. M. Crane, Seabright, 6-1, 6-1.

Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., No. 2 in National rankings and favorite in the women's singles, reached the third round with an easy 6-2, 6-2 victory over Mrs. Mary J. Lammie, Rye, N. Y.

STARS, BEATEN LAST 4 GAMES MEET MORNING

Inaugurated by a two week's absence from pitching service, necessitated by a neck injury, South Coast Morning of Huntington Beach will try to kick the reeling Santa Ana Stars still further down the National Night league ladder at the Bowl here tonight.

Santa Ana has lost four times in succession, a "record" achieved by no previous Star squad, and has been so absolutely impotent in attack that it is now on clinch to hold its own with any team in the league, let alone one manned by the sometimes invincible Morning.

Refusing to become discouraged by the series of setbacks which relegated Santa Ana from a role of chief contender for second half flag honors to a team struggling desperately to escape a second division position, Manager George Lackaye said today he would continue to use substantially the same lineup and batting order that has played such mediocre ball in the past two weeks.

"The team is in a bad slump; but it is a good team and it will play good ball as soon as it finds itself again," Lackaye explained. "Of course, we are out of running for the second half but as we still meet Anaheim and Olive we may have a lot to say about the second half championship because when we emerge from our slump we'll be harder to beat than we ever were in the first half which we won with consummate ease."

Lackaye said Joe Cornelius, until now regarded as Santa Ana's No. 1 pitcher, had requested and would be granted an indefinite period of rest, because of illness. Cornelius has been indisposed for several weeks, and his pitching has naturally suffered. He will not work again until the Olive game August 5. Cornelius has asked for that assignment, and Lackaye intimated he would get it.

Thus, the burden of mound work, including the assignment against Huntington Beach tonight, will fall on the young but dependable shoulders of Ira DeBuck. Cornelius will go on only if and when DeBuck needs succor.

Wilcox Led Indefinitely "Eeny" Wilcox, Santa Ana's crack catcher, will also be out of action until the Olive game because of his finger injury. With the club definitely out of the race, Lackaye said he would not risk further injury to Wilcox with the playoff series just around the corner.

Tom Denney, who was shifted into the outfield last week to give his sore legs a brief rest, will be back at third base but he may not play the entire game. This will send Leavitt Daley back to left field.

Huntington Beach, playing here for the last time this year, will bring to the Bowl a new pitcher in the person of bespectacled Carl Winkler who will add Morning if the refreshed left-hander is unable to "comeback." Hulen will do the catching, with Jake Gerr at first base, "Shorty" Neal at second, Bill McKinley at third, Joe Rodgers shortstop, and "Mac" Wilson, Otis Maness and Kenny Felock in the three fields.

Undefeated Anaheim runs afoul a possible unsurmountable obstacle at Whittier tonight. The mighty Valencia will be favored, of course, but if "String" McDonnell is in possession of the same faculties he showed Santa Ana a few nights ago, an upset is not unlikely.

Olive Goes To Torrance Olive, the only team with a chance of heading off Anaheim, goes to Torrance for an encounter that will test the Packers to the limit. Torrance is a much improved club, and can tie Olive for second place by winning.

Long Beach and Westminster collide at Westminster. Last place will be at stake in this one.

The standings:

NATIONAL NIGHT LEAGUE	W.	L.	Pct.
Anaheim	8	0	100.0
Huntington	5	3	.625
Torrance	5	3	.625
Santa Ana	4	4	.500
Huntington Beach	3	5	.375
Whittier	2	6	.250
Westminster	2	6	.250
Long Beach	1	7	.125

Tonight's Games: Huntington Beach at Santa Ana; Anaheim at Whittier; Long Beach at Westminster; Olive at Torrance.

QUESTION WALKER'S K. O. OF RUGGIRELLO

NEWARK, N. J., July 26.—(INS)—A sequel to the one-round victory of Mickey Walker over Salvatore Ruggirello of Italy here last night is expected today.

Following Mickey's triumph, Commissioner John Flood ordered the purses of the adversaries held up. Beyond saving the fight "did not look right to him," Flood would not give any explanation.

The bout itself left a bitter, though not entirely unexpected, taste in the mouths of the fans at the ringside, who predicted he for the bout went on that Ruggirello would fade in a few rounds. Salvatore, however, fooled them by taking the count after 1:10½ minutes of fighting in the first.

Edgren Ill, Will Resign From Board

SACRAMENTO, July 26.—(UP)—Notice of the resignation of Robert Edgren, nationally known sports writer and cartoonist, as a member of the state athletic commission, was expected at the governor's office today. Edgren is ill in New York.

Governor Ralph said he had not received word directly from Edgren himself, and that he would take no action in the matter until he received notice officially.

Joseph Genshlee, secretary of the commission, has been notified by Edgren that he was resigning because of ill health.

FORMER COAST RIVALS ALLIES OF GRID GAME

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—Seven senior members of last year's National championship Trojan football team are now busy preparing for one last game under their coach, Howard Jones, but the rivals from California and Stanford whom they fought for three seasons will be allies, for their farewell gridiron appearance will be made against a Yale-Harvard-Princeton senior squad in the Olympic night football game at Olympic Stadium, August 8.

Southern California's stars are teaming up with ten men from Stanford and eight from California, with Howard Jones being assisted in the coaching by "Pop" Warner of Stanford and Bill Ingram of California. Thirteen men from Yale, six from Harvard and five from Princeton constitute the eastern squad. Howard's brother, Tad, is the head coach of this group, his assistants being Mal Stevens of Yale, Nelson (Nat) Poe of Princeton, "Eskie" Clark of Harvard and Line Coach Adam Walsh of Yale.

For ten days the two squads have been going through intensive drills and both now have a complete set of plays and are in smooth working order. They will have had three weeks of practice before they clash.

The Eastern squad is working its plays with a military shift and is using both a balanced and unbalanced line. The Western squad is not yet using a shift, although Howard Jones is recognized as the foremost exponent of this feature of the game, but is concentrating on power thrusts from close formation and deception plays from wingback formations. Jones will probably introduce a shift during the final week of practice.

"Give 'em something, will you, Pop?" said Jones of Southern California. "How about one of those double wingbacks that your Stanford boys use?"

"Um," growled Warner, "you teach them those. You've scouted them until you know more about them than I do."

"O.K.," Jones answered. "I'll teach them your wingbacks and you teach them my end-around play."

"I've figured out how to stop those double wingbacks and that end-around," said Ingram of California. "Wait till next fall."

"Won't do you any good," mumbled Warner. "I've got all new stuff for next fall."

With that the called off practice and went out to play golf. Here's how the Stanford-California-Southern California team is lining up:

Hamas scored two knockdowns in the third round, blew up for the next two, but steadied down to win. He took six rounds, Ramage three and one was even. The fans supported the decision of Lieut. Jack Kennedy, referee.

After being knocked down twice in the third, Ramage came out of his corner with a furious attack which threatened to put another end to the story. Flits flailing, he fought Hamas to a standstill.

But Ramage seemingly was content with his one round revenge for the knockdowns. The fight simmered along with Hamas having a slight edge until the tenth. Then they stood toe to toe and slugged. They were too tired to do much damage.

Ramage attempted to repeat his performance of the fight four months ago by peppering Hamas' left eye with straight lefts in a fast first round. He closed this eye last time and won the bout.

NEW YORK, July 26.—(INS)—There was walling and weeping and gnashing of false teeth in Philadelphia today because the Athletics will be without the services of Roger Cramer, third baseman, who was injured in the game with the New York Yankees yesterday.

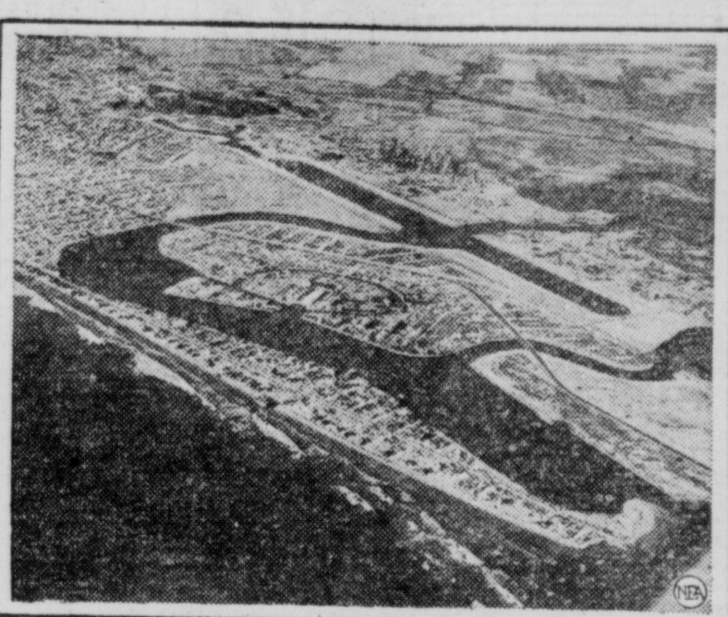

Johnny Jones, formerly Albany gardener, has been signed to bolster the weakened outfield corps.

HAMAS FLOORS LEE RAMAGE TWICE, EARNS REFEREE'S DECISION AT WRIGLEY FIELD

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—(UP)—Steve Hamas of Penn State college and Lee Ramage of San Diego were even up today.

Hamas, the savage puncher, took a 19-round decision from Ramage, the boxer, in an open air event at Wrigley field last night before some 12,000 spectators.

It was revenge for last spring's debacle, when he took but one round out of 10, and it left the two heavyweights who are at the top of the profession in this particular locality with but one bout each.

Hamas scored two knockdowns in the third round, blew up for the next two, but steadied down to win. He took six rounds, Ramage three and one was even. The fans supported the decision of Lieut. Jack Kennedy, referee.

QUARRELS AND CHARGES STEAL OLYMPIC 'PLAY'

BY STUART CAMERON (United Press Sports Editor) LOS ANGELES, July 26.—(UP)—Pre-Olympic fights which were just reaching the feverish stage today belied the lofty motives and ideals, ascribed to the International Games.

So far the fuses have been largely intra-national. There is, however, a smattering of international discord which is certain to flare into the open before the amateur sports extravaganza is opened by Vice President Curtis Saturday.

International or intra-national, the fuses, arguments, fist fights, gunplay, innuendoes and open charges today completely overshadowed the final preparations for renewal of the historic Games.

There were no less than seven upheavals. These were:

1.—Argentina's fight for official control of its athletes.

2.—Charges that Canada's women's relay swimming team was "hand picked."

3.—The appeal of Mayor Porter of Los Angeles for funding of the games, and his charges that Easterners "let down" the U. S. team.

4.—Paavo Nurmi's suspension on grounds of professionalism.

5.—A similar suspension given Jules Ladoumègue of France.

6.—Stella Walsh's last minute decision to run for Poland instead of the United States.

Most spectacular, of course, was the Argentine matter. Removal of Dr. A. C. Gaudino as president of his country's team, startling as it was, came only as an anti-climax to the fist-fighting and gun-drawing done by some of the South American athletes.

Janet Sheather of Toronto, was not selected as member of her country's relay team and her mother is said to have prepared a formal Olympic Committee protest charging that selections were based on personal preferences rather than athletic merit.

Mayor Porter blamed the $100,000 U. S. Olympic budget shortage on "Eastern apathy" and begged for individual contributions of between $250 and $500 from "public spirited" Los Angeles citizens. Failure to raise this hundred thousand will result in America's loss of the Olympic championship, he said.

The Nurmi story is an old one and the final chapter will be known Friday when Finland's appeal for his reinstatement will be passed upon.

Similarly, International Amateur Athletic federation officials are expected to rule finally on the bid of Ladoumègue, brilliant French middle distance runner, for restoration to amateur status.

Stella Walsh's case may not even be discussed. This great woman athlete decided only a few days ago that she would not accept the U. S. citizenship which she could have had by signing her name to a document. Instead, unless complications arise, she will run in a Polish track suit. (She lost her job with the New York Central railroad at Cleveland. Poland gave her a governmental position.)

Most mysterious is the matter of Levi Casey of the Los Angeles club. He apparently had qualified for the hop, step and jump event on the U. S. team. But the American Olympic forces would not allow him to become a team member. Instead they chose Sol (Happy) Furth of New York, whom Casey had beaten in the final trials.

No U. S. Olympic official has said why the action was taken. The switch, it was announced, was made "for reasons best known to himself," meaning Casey.

But Hamas got in two hard fights in the second round, just as his eyes was beginning to color. The knockdowns and Hamas' comeback took the succeeding two, after which it was a battle for points.

Other results: Joe Glick, 143, San Francisco, decided Davo Velasco, 147, Mexico, (10); Joe Tiekens, 116, Japanese, decided Star Frisco, 117, Filipino, (1); Jimmy Smith, 147, decided Bobby Graham, 149-1-2, (4); Lou Snider, 121-1-2, decided Geno Espinosa, 123-1-2, (4).

New Officers Selected For American Legion Auxiliary

LEAFLETS OF W.C.T.U. HIT WETS' CLAIM

ORANGE, July 26.—In carrying out the prohibition program at the mass meeting held Sunday evening in the First Presbyterian church of this city, the Orange Board of Strategy had the assistance of the W. C. T. U., whose members distributed literature on the subject following the meeting.

One of the leaflets states that "Educators in colleges and high schools of the country are almost unanimous in saying behavior conditions are better and less drinking among students since prohibition, even though enrollments have increased by the millions."

Prohibition Backed
"More than 1,075,000 signatures of young people from 14 to 30 years of age, to a pledge of total abstinence and prohibition support, were presented to President Hoover, December, 1931, by delegates representing the Young People's Branch, W. C. T. U."

"Four thousand delegates to the Young People's Luther league in convention in Chicago, July 1931, passed ringing resolutions in favor of support for prohibition."

"A nation freed from the curse of intoxicating liquor if it takes 50 years is the slogan adopted by International Christian Endeavor convention, representing several million young people in July 1931."

Another leaflet states, "Prohibition may not be operating ideally, but we have come a long way from the state of affairs in 1916 when almost four times as much money was squandered for liquor in this country as was spent on education, and more than twice as much as was expended by the national department."

Still another says, "The wets claim the return of beer would bring back prosperity. Germany and England have the largest breweries in the world running full blast but it was to the 'dry' United States that they both came for help."

Alcohol Habit Forming
Some of the literature distributed states, "The fundamental reason for prohibition for the nation and total abstinence for the individual is the scientifically proved fact that alcohol is a habit forming, narcotic poison."

"The Bureau of Health of the government of Quebec, Canada, publishes a health booklet entitled

"Principles of Hygiene," showing an illustration warning against the liquor that it sells under the seal of the king, bearing the royal insignia 'Established in Fidelity, Loyal to the End.'"

One of the leaflets refers to "Alcohol and Athletics" stating, "The greatest of them all, Knute Rockne, demanded that the men on his teams abstain from alcoholic drinks both in and out of the football season. It contains a quotation from Suzanne Lenglen, stating that she drinks no wine or alcoholic drinks of any kind, and one from Connie Mack stating that all the umpires together have not put as many players out of the game as old man booze."

Open Breweries, Close Mills
Another leaflet states, "Open up the breweries and you shut down the mills. The money that goes to liquor, cheats three men out of a job. For every million dollars invested, the brewer employed 73 wage earners, while the mill employed 318 workers."

"So it is to laugh when the wets send up their howl for beer on the basis that it will increase employment. The money spent for booze can't buy shoes nor any other legitimate commodity and for every man who might be hired by beer, at least three would be fired from the industries that would lose the beer money."

"The wet rose of liquor to solve the unemployment problem, is as frothy as the foam on the beer itself."

MRS. GOODWIN PRESIDENT OF ORGANIZATION

ORANGE, July 26.—Officers were elected at the meeting of the American Legion clubhouse last night. During the coming year Mrs. Dolores Goodwin will head the auxiliary activities as president and other officers chosen are: First vice president, Mrs. Margaret Tague; second vice president, Mrs. Lucy Tippet; secretary, Maude Sisson; treasurer, Mrs. Alma Baier; chaplain, Mrs. Edith Richardson; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Henrietta McCarthy; marshal, Mrs. Anna Christensen; historian, Mrs. Myrna Frevert; musician, Mrs. Gertrude Williams.

Announcement was made that the fifth annual meeting would be held at San Clemente Friday. All delegates are expected to be present as the meeting will be in the nature of a caucus. SUN'S RAYS TAKE BACK SEAT TO COD LIVER OIL

Necessary for Full Feed Value

Chickens can't "get by" today on the sun's rays alone—because egg production has been stepped up. The following figures are interesting. They show the average eggs laid per hen, per year in United States commercial poultry centers from years 1900 to 1930, inclusive—

1900 to 1915—78 eggs per hen
1915 to 1925—124 " "
1925 to 1930—130 " "
1930—135 " "

Scientific poultry research has enabled hens to lay more eggs. And this is where NOPYO XX Concentrated Vitamin D comes in.

Cod liver oil is a source of Vitamin D, and the sun's rays are a substitute for it—according to Professor W. C. Thompson, poultry husbandman at the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, in the Extension Service bulletin.

Today you poultrymen can't afford to rely on sunshine—even in California. So for a uniform, dependable supply of Vitamin D, so necessary for our modern high producing birds, feed NOPYO XX Concentrated Vitamin D.

"What 15 Professors of Poultry Husbandry Say About Feeding Vitamin D." In a special letter-size folder is yours for the asking. If you're not a poultryman, show this ad to your neighbor who is. No charge—postpaid. Address a letter to NOPYO, 465 California St., San Francisco.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

by Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Cherry Dixon, pretty 19-year-old daughter of wealthy parents, falls in love with Dan Phillips, newspaper reporter. She quarrels with her father about Dan and then, taking advantage of leap year, asks Dan to marry her. They are married and move into a cheap apartment. Cherry's struggles with housework are discouraging. Dixie Shannon, movie critic of the News, is friendly with Cherry. She meets handsome Max Pearson, also of the News.

After several weeks Cherry's mother becomes seriously ill. The girl is called home and there is a reconciliation with her parents but pride will not allow her to accept financial aid from them. When Mrs. Dixon is stronger she and her husband leave for several months at the seashore.

Cherry and Dan are invited to a swimming party at a nearby resort. Dan is delayed and Cherry starts with Pearson. A storm overtakes them and while they are waiting for it to pass he tells her he loves her. They finally reach home but after that Cherry avoids Pearson. Brenda Vail, magazine writer, comes to Wellington. Dan meets her and she asks him to collaborate with her on a play. Most of his evenings at Miss Vail's apartment. He and Cherry plan an evening together but a telephone call comes from Dan from Miss Vail. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXVII

Dan put down the telephone. "I'm sorry," he said. "Guess we'll have to see the Caseys some other night. That was Brenda calling. She's just had a new idea for the ending of the first act. Wants me to come over and rewrite what we did last night."

"Couldn't it wait until tomorrow?"

"Why, Cherry, I can't very well ask Brenda to wait. It's a big opportunity for me, you know. It's not every author who'd be willing to collaborate with a person entirely unknown. If she wants to work on the play tonight I think it's up to me to be there."

"I suppose you're right," Cherry said slowly. "You'll have to go."

Dan disappeared into the dressing room. A few minutes later he was back, pulling the ends of his tie through to make a neat knot. "Listen, Cherry," he said, "why don't you come along with me?"

"You mean go with you to Miss Vail's?"

"Sure. Maybe we'll be through early and we can pick up somebody at the office for a game of bridge. Or we might see a late movie."

Cherry shook her head. "No, I guess I'll stay at home."

"But why don't you come? You said you'd been in the house all day. It would be good for you to get out."

Cherry was not to be persuaded. "You go," she said. "If Mrs. Moreau's upstairs I'll go up and talk to her. I'd like to have her see if I've got that dress out the way I should."

Ten minutes later Dan was gone. Cherry hesitated before she finally took the folds of yellow cloth over her arm and went upstairs to rap on the door of the Moreau's apartment. Why should she feel jealous of Brenda Vail, this woman who was almost a stranger? What did it matter to Cherry if Dan spent so many evenings with Miss Vail? They were writing a play—the play that was to make Dan known to the world as a talented young author.

"I should be grateful," Cherry told herself. "She's doing what I can't for Dan—helping him make a name and a place for himself. It means everything for me, too. Money. The sort of life we've dreamed of. Happiness! Dan could never be happy with things as they are now. He's too ambitious. Oh, I should be glad Miss Vail came to Wellington and glad she's staying!"

Somewhat, although she told herself all this several times, she could not quite believe it. Not a single thing had happened to plant in Cherry's mind the seed of jealousy and yet the restless, troublesome thing was there.

Dan did not come home early that evening or the next. He told Cherry enthusiastically that at last the play was progressing. Two acts were almost completed. The third, which was to be the last act, was going to be difficult to handle. There was so much about the mechanics of writing for the stage of which he was ignorant. Brenda seemed to know, though. If the play really "clicked" the credit would be Brenda's.

"She's great!" he assured Cherry with glowing eyes. "Brenda knows life. She's as different from the sort of people you meet around here as day is from night."

It was on such occasions that the green-eyed goddess asserted itself. Cherry would remain silent to keep the bitter thoughts from her lips. Dan did not seem to notice how much of the time Cherry was silent.

There were evenings when Dan did not spend working with Brenda. Occasionally Miss Vail had other engagements. Once some friends came for her and drove her to a town 50 miles away. She spent two days there, returning to tell Dan that she had been horribly bored. She managed, without saying so, to convey the impression that the time had been dull because she had missed understanding companionship.

There were other evenings when Dan had assignments or was busy at the office. He telephoned to Cherry on a night when he had been working late. It was almost 9 o'clock.

"Listen, honey," he said. "Max and I are going to stop for you in 15 minutes. Can you be ready? It's a grand night and we're going to drive out to a new barbecue place on Stewart road. Better have a coat—it's cool out. Yes, we'll be there in 15 minutes. Twenty at the latest!"

The 20 minutes were not yet up when the roadster halted before the apartment house. Cherry came down the steps wearing a knitted sweater suit. It was brown and pulled close over her head was a scarlet beret. She looked unusually childish, unusually attractive.

Cherry called "Hello!" gayly and stepped into the roadster. She had not seen Max Pearson since the night of their drive through the storm.

His greeting was friendly, casual. Dan wanted to know if Cherry was sure she would be warm enough and she said that she was. A moment more and they were off down the street.

The week had brought the first foretaste of autumn weather. There was a sharp nip in the air and once and she neared the limits of the city the odor of burning grass came to them. It must have been the first fall bonfire. Overhead the sky was almost black and the stars gleamed with chill, bright frigidity.

Cherry felt Dan's arm around her and snuggled close. She was glad that she had worn the woolly sweater suit. The cold wind struck against her cheeks and sent her blood back tingling. It was good to be riding through the night. It was good to have Dan at her side. Suddenly in the darkness Cherry's worries and problems slipped away.

Her fingers found Dan's hand, slipped into it. He was saying something she could not hear because of the wind. Cherry laughed and turned her head.

Dan repeated, "I said we hadn't driven out on this road since June. Remember? Max brought us that night, too."

Cherry nodded. The memory of that spring night was still sweet. All the happiness she had known with Dan suddenly came crowding back. Oh, how could she have thought for one moment that anything could affect her love for Dan or his for her? Of course it was nonsense! She had been making herself unhappy over nothing. Nothing was wrong and nothing would ever take Dan away from her!

Pearson was talking now. He had to raise his voice so as to be heard above the wind. Cherry did not even listen or hear Dan's reply. She was glad the conversation was about something at the office about which they would not expect her to express an opinion.

They were riding along a well-lighted highway. Presently, far ahead, an electric sign loomed up. "That's the place," Pearson told them. "Jo and I were out last week. Elegant fried chicken they serve. That is if you're in the mood for fried chicken—which I certainly am!"

"Chili for mine," Dan announced. "Haven't had a good bowl of hot chili for ages."

"Why do they call it a barbecue?" Cherry wanted to know. "It looks just like any other place to eat."

They had reached the lighted building. A dozen cars were parked by the road and there were more in an enclosed space at the other side of the structure. Pearson brought the roadster to a halt and the three stepped to the ground.

"There's a theory," Max explained, "that these places actually barbecue their meat—cook it whole, you know, over a bed of coals. As a matter of fact I think their kitchens are just about like any other restaurant's. You get good food and not much service—which suits most folks when they are driving."

They entered the long low building. Three men in white caps and aprons were serving customers who sat on high, swivel stools or lounged against the counter. There were two girls with escorts at one end of the room. The other customers were men.

One of the men behind the counter was making sandwiches. Another was filling cups of coffee for a tray that was evidently to be carried to customers waiting outside in a car.

Cherry and Dan and Max found places at the counter. They gave their orders and were served almost immediately. The hot coffee was strong and delicious, the chicken delicately tender. Though the portions were huge Cherry finished every crumb.

The talk drifted to Dan's play.

"Putting a lot of time on it, I suppose," Pearson asked easily.

"Every minute I can spare. You know I had no idea there was so much work to a play. It's not just writing the lines but thinking the thing through and planning how it's to go."

"How about the collaboration?" Pearson wanted to know. "Do you both write and put your work together or how do you manage it?"

"Oh, we just talk together and work it out. I sit at the typewriter and do the actual writing but Brenda has most of the ideas."

"I see. What do you think of the play, Cherry?"

The girl laughed. "I don't know a thing about it. Dan's keeping the whole thing a surprise until it's finished."

"Seems to me you might be rather a valuable critic," Pearson said.

Cherry had been avoiding his eyes but now she looked at him. There was nothing in his manner to suggest that impetuous night of the storm. Cherry was not quite comfortable in Max's presence and she glanced away quickly.

"Say, there's something I wish you'd do," Dan was saying. "It's darned lonesome for Cherry with me spending so much time working. Drop in to see her now and then, won't you Max? Cheer her up. Cherry doesn't see enough people or get out as often as she should."

Pearson's hesitation was almost imperceptible. He said, "Why—yes, of course. I'll be glad to come to see her. Any time that I'm welcome."

"Welcome!" Dan grinned. "Say, I guess you know you're welcome any time at our place. Isn't he, Cherry?"

The girl said "Certainly." Her eyes did not meet Pearson's again.

County Schools Expect $822,337.85 From State

ESTIMATES ON SCHOOL FUNDS RECEIVED TODAY

Orange county schools will receive approximately $822,337.85 from the state this year, according to word received today by County Superintendent of Schools Ray Adkinson. The estimate of state apportionments was announced by Vieriing Kersey, state superintendent of public instruction.

According to Kersey's estimate Orange county's two junior colleges will receive a total of $108,606.05. Of this amount $58,656.33 goes to the Santa Ana college and $49,949.72 goes to the Fullerton college. Each school gets the state bonus of $2000 for Junior college and the balance of the state apportionment is secured through this allowance of $56.81 per student, based on average daily attendance. Payment to the Santa Ana college, based on average daily attendance will total $56,856.93. Fullerton will receive $47,919.12 on the same basis.

Grammar schools of the county will receive a total of $517,449.10 in state aid. This amount is made up of a payment for excess cost in educating physically handicapped children, an allowance of $700 per teacher unit, and a payment of $5.95 per student based on average daily attendance.

The state will turn over $2047.15 to the county to assist in educating physically handicapped children. The payment, based upon average daily attendance for grammar schools will total $105,439.95. The teacher unit payment will total $409,962.

The amount to be paid to the high schools is $196,282.70 and is apportioned under three heads. The first division of this apportionment comes under the heading of years maintained. The state pays $550 for each year maintained counting each high school as maintaining three years. Orange county's total is 53 years and will return $29,150 from the state. Special day and evening classes will bring an additional $18,020 and the payment of $23.95 per student on average daily attendance will add $149,112.70 to the total.

EARLY HARVEST OF WALNUTS IN COUNTY IS SEEN

In a few weeks walnuts will be ready for harvest, according to Harold E. Wahlberg, farm advisor for the University of California in Orange county. Walnut growers should get irrigation out of the way soon in order that ground may be cultivated and flattened down for picking bed sufficiently long in advance of the first crop of walnuts, he stated.

"Harvest will probably be earlier this year than last unless unforeseen climatic conditions intervene to delay the ripening of the walnuts," Wahlberg said. "So far, the quality is excellent. Everything must be done by the grower to preserve this quality to the highest and greatest possible extent. There are two things which the grower can do between now and the middle of October which will greatly affect this quality situation, the first being to apply sufficient pre-harvest irrigation, and the second to push with all possible speed the harvesting program.

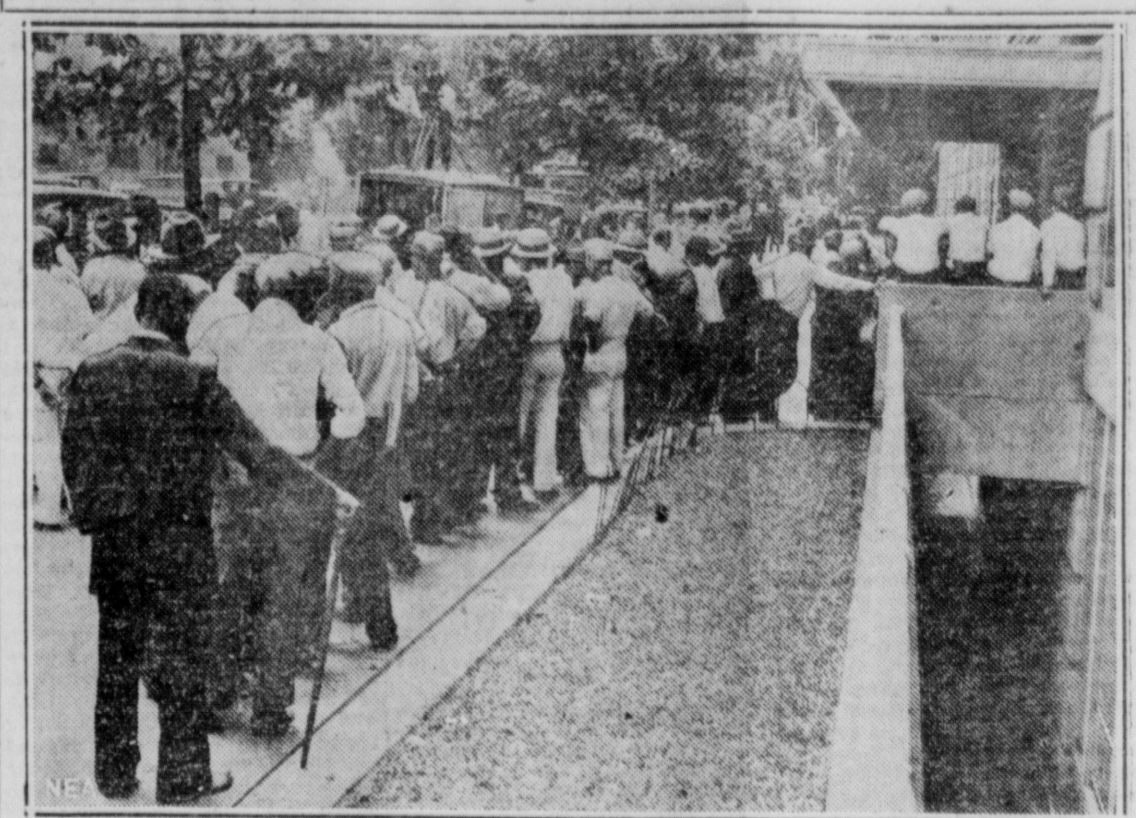

"Most orchards received a good irrigation during the latter part of June or during July, perhaps two irrigations. Normally speaking, a moderate irrigation of four or five or perhaps six inches of water should be applied between now and the beginning of harvest in order that there may be sufficient water in the soil for the trees to continue growth throughout harvest and also to assure a clean hulling out of the individual nuts. There is nothing more conducive to sticktights than an orchard which is almost too dry. Insufficient water in the soil at harvest time, particularly if hot weather ensues, will mean a partial wilting of the walnut hulls which will cling to the shell and be hard to remove. Examine your soil thoroughly with a soil tube to a depth of at least six feet and be sure that to that depth there is adequate moisture for the trees to use.

"The second thing the grower can do to improve or preserve what quality now exists, is to harvest walnuts promptly and quickly, and prevent their lying around on the ground after they fall or from hanging on the trees in a partly cracked hull. Get them off the tree as quickly as possible. Repeated light shakings of the tree as soon as any appreciable number of cracked hulls are in evidence is the advice given by the agricultural extension service who has spent much time studying the effects of early harvest and quality. Nuts which hang in a partly cracked hull will turn moldy. Nuts which lie on the ground after falling from the tree are apt to darken and thus reduce quality. Thus the best advice is to get them off the tree and dry them as quickly as possible."

guarantees all savers against loss of any kind, company officials say. WAITING FOR TICKETS HOME

With the nation's Congressmen gone home and the last chance vanished for immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus, these crusading ex-service men are pictured as they lined up before the Veterans' Bureau in Washington to take advantage of the government's offer to pay their passage home. Many, it has been revealed, use these transportation funds to bring other "recruits" to the capital to swell the ranks of the bonus army.

HURLS CHALLENGE TO WETS; APPEALS TO HUGE AUDIENCE TO ELECT ONLY AVOWED DRYS

Sounding a warning to the politicians, Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, lecturer for the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and national officer of that organization, spoke here last night at the First Presbyterian church.

Speaking to an audience that jammed the church to capacity, she warned the politicians that "the dries are coming back and will see that every man who voted against the Eighteenth amendment gets his dues."

Preceding last night's lecture a 25-piece young people's orchestra from Riverside presented a musical program. The opening, prayer and benediction were offered by the Rev. C. M. Akers, pastor of the Spurgeon Memorial church and Mrs. Pearl Kendall Hess, Orange, state and national director of scientific temperance instruction for the W. C. T. U., introduced the speaker of the evening.

Hails Challenge

After paying a tribute to the youth of America, Mrs. Armor launched a broadside at advocates of a return to the licensed sale of liquor by declaring that those who wanted to return to those days are cowards and quitters.

"We are not going back," she declared, "we are armed with the truths of science and we do not intend to quit. This is a day of battle and our message to both political parties is 'We are not going back.'"

She urged her listeners to forget alliances and vote only for candidates who are avowed dries and will uphold the Eighteenth Amendment. Declaring that she was a Democrat "until the last convention" she said "voters who put love of party above the election of dry candidates are idolaters and greater rebels than Jefferson Davis and General Robert E. Lee."

Urging her listeners to vote for dry candidates Mrs. Armor said that in cases where there are several dry candidates and one wet for the same office the voters should

Birthdays Celebrated
At Damascus Shrine
Meeting

A meeting of special significance was held Friday evening in Masonic temple by members of Damascus White Shrine, for the occasion marked the birthday anniversaries of Mrs. Lillian Vinson and James Tarpley, worthy high priestess and watchman of shepherds of the lodge.

The two leaders of the organization did not know that their anniversaries were being celebrated until they were escorted to the dining room following the business session. Here they found a handsome birthday cake in observance of the event.

The business session was in charge of Mrs. Vinson and Mrs. Tarpley. Special visitors at this time were Mrs. Margaret Owens, worthy high priestess, and Norman Wright, watchman of shepherds, of Immanuel Shrine, Huntington Park and Carl Snyder, watchman of shepherds of Fullerton Shrine.

A delightful program followed, with KRGD artists, Warren Bramley and Robert Chelf giving special numbers. La Rene McMillan, daughter of Mrs. Pearl McMillan, gave acrobatic dances.

The cobweb social which Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Henry had planned, and which necessitated their spending several hours in preparing the frame and the web, proved a delightful success. For a small sum, guests were permitted to wind up a thread attached to a clothes pin, with the result that they received gifts.

In Banquet Room

Invited to the dining room, the group found small tables decorated with candles, flowers and doli, all in soft pastel tints. Of special interest was the large white birthday cake for Mrs. Vinson and Mr. Tarpley. This was in the form of a cross, and was centered with the Shrine emblem whose arms bore the names, "Lillian" and "James." Mrs. Vinson was presented with a lovely cake and a large basket of flowers from Mr. Tarpley. Birthday cards were passed to the guests, who signed them for the birthday celebrants.

The committee in charge of the successful evening included Mrs. Hugh Henry, chairman of entertainment; Mrs. Florence Evans, chairman of refreshments, assisted by Mrs. W. Edkins, Mrs. Gerude Demetriou, Mrs. Clara B. Cook, Mrs. Clara Doughenbaugh and Mrs. Avis De Vore.

Plans were made for a family picnic to be held Friday evening of this week at 6:30 o'clock at Irvine park. Members are to bring picnic baskets, table service and steak. Tables will be reserved for the group. Coffee is to be furnished, with Fred Pope, W. G. Lewis, W. W. Hyde and James Nicholson in charge. Mrs. Effie Nicholson will be in charge of entertainment; Mrs. Pearl McMillan of the barbecue pit and Mrs. Jessie Overton in charge of table reservations.

Announcement was made that the next regular meeting of Damascus White Shrine will be an indoor beach party in charge of Mrs. Louise Chapin. Others on the committee include Mrs. Emily Huntley, Mrs. Lillian Hubbard, Mrs. Beale Lighthall, Mrs. Gwen-dolyn Morris, Mrs. Lelia Mosher, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer, Mrs. Etta Darling, Mrs. Mae Jackson, Miss Betty Griffin, Mrs. Fanny Barker and Mrs. Eva McConnell.

White Shrine circle will have a covered dish luncheon at 12 o'clock noon, Tuesday, August 9, at Irvine park.

Auxiliary and Scouts

Dedication of a handsome American flag to the Girl Scouts of the city is to be made tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock on the grounds of the J. C. Horton home, 702 South Broadway, where the American Legion auxiliary will make formal presentation of the gift, solicited for the girls. Miss Julia Magill is to present the flag.

The grounds of the Horton home have been chosen as the setting for the ceremony, as it is there that the Scouts have their club-rooms. A feature of the evening is to be inspection of the girls' headquarters, which they have been getting in readiness for this event for several weeks. They have made new curtains, posters and other accessories for their Scout home.

In presenting the flag, Miss Magill will have the assistance of American Legion auxiliary drill team members who will escort the nation's banner.

The program will include a skit on Scout camping, a demonstration of knot tying and woodcraft, among other things. Refreshments of punch and cookies made by the girls, are to be served.

Santa Ana Business
Girls Home From Asilomar Meet

Returning from a conference whose participants came from all parts of the United States and from the Hawaiian Islands, Miss Nancy Elder, general secretary of the Santa Ana Y. W. C. A., headed a delegation of local business girls home this week end after a week's institute at Asilomar, which provided richly productive of materials for future work in Y. W. C. A. circles.

The Santa Ana group of business girls in attendance comprised Miss Eliza Vonn, Miss Mary Ford, Miss Helen Mayes and Miss Rowena Newcomb.

Dominating the week's study were sessions devoted to current economic conditions, this phase of the lecturing being supervised by Dr. Grace Coyle, of the national board of the Y. W. C. A., with headquarters at New York.

Lectures and a worship service constituted the daily morning work together with "appreciation hours" given over to discussions of public affairs, home and marriage, the teachings of Jesus as applied to present day problems, verse speaking, choir, and arts and craft work. Afternoons were allowed for excursions to the many points of interest in the country surrounding the Asilomar camp, while in the evening, local club programs and problems were considered under the leadership of Miss Margaret Williamson of the National Business Girls' conference.

Attention of Y. W. C. A. folk of this community has been called by Miss Elder, to a Health Education Institute to be held this week at the Y. W. C. A. home in Los Angeles. Mrs. John Henderson, president of the Santa Ana Y. W. C. A. board, and Mrs. Leta Morton, local chairman of health education, will accompany Miss Elder to the conference, which will continue through Friday, and at which Miss Edith Gates, National Health Education secretary of the association, will be a speaker. Inasmuch as the International Recreation congress will be coincident with the Health Education conference, sessions of both meets may be attended, Miss Elder pointed out.

Miss Hell left for Florence late last summer, accompanying Miss Yoder upon her return after a summer spent in Southern California, her former home. The Santa Ana girl has had a wonderful year with her school work in Florence varied by travel into various countries of the continent.

Since the close of the school year she was one of a party of students taken on a supervised tour of the continent and into the British Isles for a month preceding her sailing date. The Laurits Swenson sailed from Antwerp and came directly to the California port by way of the Panama Canal.

Girl Scouts Return
From Interesting
Camping Trip

A dozen girls, members of the Cardinal and Clover Girl Scout patrols, were home today after two days of camping which yielded numerous unexpected experiences.

Pitching camp in Holy Jim canyon in the Trabuco hills, the young Scouts, all under 12 years of age, established a daily program which included early morning hikes, instruction in first aid; periods of organized play, and singing and story telling about a campfire at night. Irene Noble, leader for the troop, blew tape morning and evening and for the several meals, all of which were prepared by the girls of the two patrols.

Deer were discovered to be plentiful in the locality of the camp, one buck approaching within a few feet on the first evening, and on the second, being persuaded, with the aid of watermelon rind, to be surrounded by the entire group of 14 girls. A tarantula was discovered this same evening.

One evening was given over to a talk by the forest ranger on the forestry service; growth of trees; habits of deer, and the kinds of wild animal to be found in the local canyons. Numerous questions, piled by his young hearers, prolonged the talk until a late hour.

Patrol members, enjoying the experience were Helen Jude, Lucile Griggs, Ruth Jane Mathews, Ida Bergsetter, Lura May Kent, Alice McKee, Marguerite McCarthy, Irene Noble, Margaret Rutan, Margaret Glickner, Jean Russick, Josephine Butler, Jane Nalls and Virginia Waters. Birthday Celebration
Assumes Form of Bridge Party

In planning an evening of bridge for a group of friends, Mrs. George Horton celebrated on Saturday evening, the birthday anniversary of her husband, making the party complimentary to him as a birthday host.

Arriving guests found the attractions of the Horton home at 1338 South Flower street, enhanced with the many and varied flowers of mid-summer arranged artistically in baskets and vases. Tables were awaiting for the bridge session, in which Mrs. Joe Irwin and Don Crumley held high scores, with Mrs. Barbara Hutton and Eugene Heise scoring low. Each of the quartet was presented with an appropriate prize award.

For the refreshment hour which succeeded the bridge contest, the young hostess spread her card tables with pretty linen supper cloths, centering each with an effective arrangement of pastel hued flowers. She was assisted in these pleasant duties and in serving her menu by Mrs. Walter Hammond.

Sharing the enjoyable evening and extending birthday congratulations and good wishes to their host, were Mr. and Mrs. James Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. Don Crumley, Miss Elizabeth Roehm, Miss Barbara Horton, Miss Irene West and Messrs. Eugene Heise, Norman Paul and James Crawford.

Party Guests Surprise
Honoree With Many
Handkerchiefs

One of the pleasant affairs of recent date was an evening of bridge in the Milton Foster home at 1242 Cypress street, where Mrs. Foster and her husband's mother, Mrs. C. E. Jackson, joined in complimenting Mrs. William Umberham on her birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Umberham, who is the mother of Mrs. Foster, remained unaware of the pleasant conspiracy to celebrate her natal day, until arrival of the guests revealed the surprise. Card tables were immediately placed amidst the charming floral decorations of the home, and a session of bridge soon was underway. In the contest, Mrs. Amanda Holmes and A. R. Muller held high scores and received the attractive prize awards.

Suggestive of the decorations used in the home for the marriage of the young people on July 18 were the salmon gladioluses used in decking the rooms last night. Interest centered in the dining room table, whose centerpiece was a handsome wedding cake topped with rosebuds. Tall white tapered tied with white and green bows lighted the scene, complete with snowy linens and doli.

The green, white and pink theme was observed at the small tables where dainty pink roses in bud vases, matching nut cups adorned with green and white bows, green glassware, and all other decorative details conformed to the color scheme. The bride cut her decorated cake, which was served with strawberry sherbet and other dainties. Mrs. Calvin Powers assisted Mrs. Cannon in serving.

Guests at the affair included Mr. and Mrs. Loren Cannon, the honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Coltrane of Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Mack Maple, and Mr. and Mrs. Byron Stumpf of San Diego; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Yates, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dawes, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Baird, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil

TWO MUSICAL FEATURES FOR KREG PROGRAM

Two exceptional musical programs will be presented tonight over radio KREG. One of these programs, by electrical recording, will present Lawrence Tibbett and John McCormack in their interpretations of "Thy Beaming Eyes," "Calling Me Back to You" and other favorite numbers. In addition to featuring Tibbett and McCormack this Musical Masterpiece program will introduce Hans Barth in two piano solos.

The second outstanding musical program will be presented by the Sunshine Music Club under direction of Mrs. Grace Dennison Schaffer, of Anaheim. The program by the club tonight will feature James Buntin of Long Beach, one of Southern California's outstanding tenors.

Mr. Buntin has sung on three of the most prominent radio stations in Los Angeles county. He will sing, among other numbers, "Irish Song of Songs," "Where My Caravan Has Rested," and "For You Alone." Two groups of request numbers will be played by Paul Kauffman and his banjo trio and Lois Dunham will give a humorous reading. Mrs. Schaffer, pianist, will play "Hungarian Scherzo," by Novera and "Lolita" by Emil Liebling.

KREG TO FEATURE HAPPY REPAIRMEN

Sponsored by Hockaday, Harlow and Phillips the Happy Repairmen, orchestral group de luxe will be on the air tonight over radio KREG and will bring another fast-moving program of latest popular arrangements for 15 minutes starting at 6:45 o'clock.

This program offers much in the way of entertainment and not a little of excellent information and advice on the care and upkeep of the family automobile. Information given during these broadcasts is fully as interesting as the musical portion of the program and this emphatically is not "just another program."

HARNESS STEAM

PISA—A powerful jet of steam issuing from a depth of 800 feet has successfully been harnessed by Italian engineers and now is operating an electric power plant in Lardarello. The steam operates turbines which generate 17,000 horsepower. This natural steam phenomenon is nothing new in the Valley of Cornia. It was observed in 1777, but only in the past year has it been utilized commercially.

FOURTH LECTURE ON CHIROPRACTIC

The fourth of a series of educational broadcasts on the Science of Chiropractic is scheduled for tonight over radio KREG. The talk will be given by Dr. James Workman of Santa Ana.

The topic for Dr. Workman's talk tonight is "The History and Origin of Chiropractic," and explains the change in terminology, with the chiropractic philosophy, of such terms as "analyze," and "diagnosis." It deals with the cause rather than the effect and other terms not commonly used by other healing professions.

In addition to these informative talks on specific subjects, Dr. Workman will answer any questions listeners may care to ask. To have questions answered send them to Dr. Workman care of radio KREG.

Auto Camp For Seal Beach Site

Ingenuity Creates Another Dessert Idea

It is very hard to get homemade ice cream as smooth as the commercial variety, but I did manage to achieve the impossible in my last batch of chocolate cream.

When I began to mix it I found that there was only a tablespoonful of powdered chocolate in the house and that wasn't even a start, so, in the words of the immortal Hashimura Togo, "What to do?"

Rummaging around, I found half a dozen small bars of almond milk chocolate. These were melted in 1 cup of top milk (thin cream) and 1/2 cup milk. The solitary spoonful of powdered chocolate was mixed with half a cup of sugar and added with a pinch of salt. When this was very hot it was put in a double boiler and made into a custard with 3 well beaten eggs—and of course you know that boiled custard must be stirred constantly and taken off the fire when the spoon is well coated. Longer cooking curdles the eggs and spoils the custard.

This custard was cooled, then whipped into half a pint of heavy cream, previously whipped until it began to thicken. A teaspoonful of vanilla and 6 drops of almond extract were added, and the cream was put into a small bread tin and frozen without stirring. When it was served for dessert it was so firm and smooth it sliced down like bread. That is a real record for home-made ice cream.

TODAY'S RECIPE

My Sandwich Loaf
1 fresh pullman loaf
1 pound cottage cheese
1 tall can ripe olives
(1 pint)
18 walnut meats
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon chopped chives or green onion tops
Sprig of fresh basil (optional)
A generous pint of mayonnaise
Salt, pepper and paprika.

This sandwich loaf goes on picnic with the family, makes its bow to guests for luncheon, and is at its best for that bite you like to serve after an evening session of contract.

I know that as a sandwich loaf this one has nothing special to commend it except the way it is put together. Most recipes say to cut the loaf the long way into four slices. My way is to cut the loaf the long way but into TEN slices, all thin. This is easily done. Cut off all crusts but the bottom crust; this bottom crust gives you something to hang onto

OLYMPIC FILM LAUGH GETTER AT BROADWAY

Slapstick comedy of the variety of the old Keystone Cop days, together with a plot that has no sense whatsoever, trick photography and what have you, marks the appearance here of "Million Dollar Legs," now playing at the Fox Broadway theater.

The picture has no moral, no anything except entertainment, but for entertainment it has everything.

It is one of those "goofy" pictures made to make the audience laugh out loud and as far as this is concerned, it is a perfect success, for the audiences that have seen it so far have done nothing else—giggled, guffawed and had a good time.

The plot concerns a mythical kingdom which enters the Olympic games and incidentally wins said games, due to the fact that its entire population is made up entirely of athletes. All the men are named George and all the women "Angela." All are good—too good—in their branch of sports, so winning the Olympics is an easy matter.

The cast is made up of all the Hollywoodites who are comedians, or almost. It includes Jack Oakie, who has the lead, W. C. Fields, Ben Turpin, Andy Clyde, Hank Mann, George Barbier and even Dickie Moore has been made a comedian.

The picture plays here through Wednesday.

STARTS TODAY

'BAD GIRL' BROUGHT BACK TO WALKER'S

"Bad Girl," the drama presenting James Dunn and Sally Eilers, will show tonight only at Walker's State theater on a return engagement.

Dunn, whose rise to a prominent position among the leading male players of the cinema began with his superlative performance in "Bad Girl," in which he is seen as a representative youth from the masses in this romantic comedy-drama.

The poignant spectacle of an inarticulate, but quite sincere, young man of the masses fighting against the obstacles of misunderstanding is vividly portrayed.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture suggests cutting up turnips and making "sauerkraut" out of them in the same manner as cabbage.

NEW JAZZ FILM HAS OPENING AT WEST COAST

Jazz, sex and high speed in the whirl of the younger generation provide the dramatic motif of "New Morals for Old," opening today at the Fox West Coast theater with an imposing cast headed by Robert Young, Margaret Perry, Lewis Stone and Laura Hope Crewes.

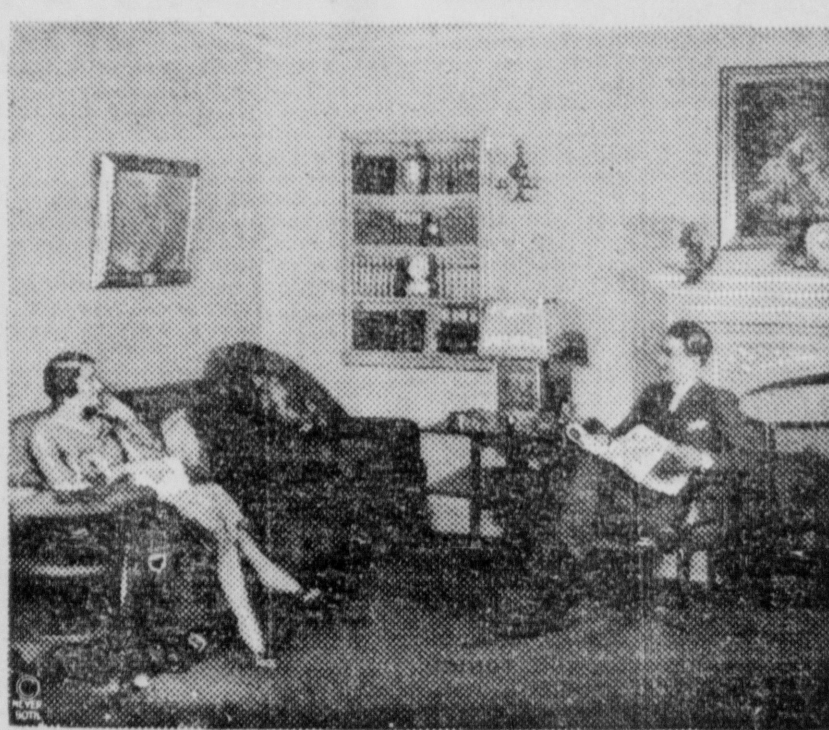

The plot concerns the attempt of modern children to live their own lives despite the opposition of parents who have lost sight of the "wild oats" of their own youth. The daughter defies her mother and enters into a clandestine romance with a married man; the son goes to Paris to study art and figures in the free life of the French capital. Eventually, they

Coast Area Votes To Organize Own Water District

HOLD ELECTION OF DIRECTORS IN SHORT TIME

LAGUNA BEACH, July 26.—By a vote of 54 to 0, residents of four suburbs to the south of Laguna Beach decided to form the South Coast County Water district in an effort to solve the water problems that have confronted the territory from Aliso Beach to Salt creek for the past two years. The new district comprises about 350 acres and includes Aliso Vista, Coast Royal, Three Arches and Three Arch Bay. By an agreement with the plaintiffs in a suit against the Laguna Beach County Water district, brought to limit the quantity of water that may be taken from the Santa Ana River basin, the board of directors of the local district will be enabled to make a contract with the newly formed district for a temporary supply of water until its own water can be developed.

Gilbert Wilson, former grand opera singer and one of the leaders in the movement to form the district, said today that after a certificate has been received from the secretary of state giving official approval to the district that the board of supervisors will call an election for the choosing of five directors to govern the district. That will require about four weeks. Any contracts for the supply of water will have to be made by that board.

The election of yesterday repeated history made by the old village of Laguna Beach in 1925 when the present water district was formed by a vote of 359 to 0. Laguna Beach went that one better, however, when it passed a $600,000 bond issue in January, 1926, by a vote of 437 to 0.

If there is to be any capital outlay in the new district, a bond issue will have to be passed. The temporary supply of water from Laguna Beach may be paid for by levying a tax against the property in the district.

IRVINE SCOUTS PRESENT PROGRAM

IRVINE, July 26.—A large crowd attended the program put on by the Girl Scouts and their leader, Mrs. Ted Cox, at the Community hall recently. Those taking part in the first play, "All the World Loves a Lover," were Marjorie Vane, Betty Pooney; Miss Peabody, Lorraine Cox; Angelina Cornstock, Catherine Cox; Patricia Farrington, Arlene Adams; Betty Evans, Irene Swain; Doris Church, Isabelle Ahern; Flora Green, Albina Iussa.

Next on the program were two songs, "Home" and "In the Good Old Summer Time," by Pauline Swain and Betty Booney; Gypsy and tap dances, by Lois Mae Stockton, of Santa Ana; whistling numbers, by Mildred Marchant, Tustin; two violin selections, by Kenneth Aiken, of Santa Ana.

In the last play, those taking part were Lorraine Cox, Isabelle Ahern, Mrs. Ted Cox, Pauline Swain, Lucy Ahern, Ted Cox and Catherine Cox. The Girl Scouts, Betty Booney, Albina Iussa, Isabelle Ahern, Lorraine and Irene Swain sang two songs.

BREA UNEMPLOYED SELECT OFFICERS

BREA, July 26.—The Unemployed of Brea met last evening to perfect the organization formed last Monday. The constitution and by-laws were read by the secretary, Miss Lucy Craig, and accepted with a few minor changes.

Guard; secretary, treasurer, Miss Lucy Craig; financial secretary, Miss Opal Estes; general manager, George Himes.

The board of directors will be elected next meeting. A committee consisting of Ray Wolfe, E. S. Fairchild and Joe Frye was appointed to bring in names for the board.

400 Books Are Rebound By H. B. Library Worker

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 26.—Miss Louise Bonnell, assistant librarian in charge of the children's department at the public library, has rebound over 400 volumes at the library. Work of the assistant librarian has proved a big saving as the books cost from 75 cents a volume upward for rebinding.

Three years ago Miss Bonnell began experimenting with rebinding the books. The best books or most popular books last about three years with the original binding and the rebinding will last equally long, thus prolonging the life of a book in the library, besides effecting an appreciable saving.

Unemployed And Lions Hold Ball Game Wednesday

GARDEN GROVE, July 26.—The benefit baseball game between members of the Unemployed association and the Lions club will be held at the high school grounds Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock. One pound of merchandise will be the admission price.

A committee consisting of John Murphy, chairman, Ernest Littlejohn and Charles Stevens reported at the last meeting on the use of script as a medium of exchange at the commissary. As soon as the script can be issued it will be used by the association.

Members of the association went to Ontario last week and brought back 114 bags of peaches. Some of the peaches were exchanged for vegetables and the balance distributed to the members, two bags to a member.

C. A. Bristall and Nate Dunsdon will have charge of the association headquarters this week.

WESTMINSTER CHURCH PICNIC HELD AUGUST 6

WESTMINSTER, July 26.—The Presbyterian church and Sunday school will hold a picnic at Irvine park August 6.

Roll call day for the local Presbyterian church is a new feature set for August 7. This will be held in the morning and at this service it is hoped that each member of the church will be in attendance. The evening service will be in charge of the Rev. Mr. Richmond, of Garden Grove, a former pastor of the Westminster Methodist church, now retired. He will speak on the prohibition question and will present 12 new stereoscopic slides on this subject.

A committee to send out cards of invitation for Roll Call Sunday has been selected by the adult superintendent of the Sunday school, Mrs. T. E. Turpin, those being Mrs. Ruth Penhall, Mrs. Ethel Crane, B. B. Brown, Ed L. Hensley and Mrs. Virginia Patterson.

The annual Sunday school Bible Vacation school is scheduled to open August 8 and teachers for the different departments are being selected. The school will be open two weeks.

The Happy Workers of the church will meet Wednesday for the day at the church hall for a pot luck dinner and regular meeting and all of the women of the congregation are invited.

Fellowship meeting will be omitted Wednesday night, allowing all the privilege of attending the meeting of the Presbyterian Social Union at Anaheim park that evening.

A guest minister, the Rev. R. Irvin Williams, of Roseville, Calif., occupied the pulpit of the local Presbyterian church at both services Sunday. The Rev. Mr. Williams was classmate of the local pastor, the Rev. C. G. Carter, at San Enselmo, and he and Mrs. Williams accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Carter home from synod at San Diego Saturday night as their guests. The Rev. Mr. Williams took as his subject Sunday morning, "Pagan Values," while the evening topic was "Front Porch Christians."

BEACH GROUP TO BACK HORSE RACES

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 26.—Plans are being discussed by sportsmen and old men for backing up the men who are promoting the auto races on the new track between this city and Newport. The auto races will be continued under the same management.

Besides the auto races, Will Jones is planning with a group of Southland horsemen, including Walter J. Hill, of Midway City, to stage horse races on the auto track on alternate week ends. The horse races will start here as soon as the track closes at Salinas, where most of the horsemen are now congregated.

The Jones Kennels near Talbert, operated by two brothers of Bill Jones of this city, are noted for their fine greyhounds. Their dogs are racing on all the leading tracks of California and as far east as Chicago. It is planned to make dog races one of the features of the track here. A artificial rabbit is to be installed on the track as a lure for the dogs.

Burglar Visits Cafe Second Time

SEAL BEACH, July 26.—For the second time within three weeks, a burglar entered the Glide-Inn cafe at the corner of Bay boulevard and Coast highway here Sunday night and stole the identical goods that were missing on the first visit of the thief.

James Arnerich, proprietor of the cafe, closed the doors at 2 a. m. and retired for the night in his room at the rear of the place. Opening Monday morning, he found the lock removed from the back door onto the porch and a small hole cut through a window into the main restaurant. About four dollars in change and a number of packages of cigarettes were missing. In the first burglary, the same brand of cigarettes were taken and the same method was used in entering the establishment.

The new pastor has the distinction of being the first person in the state to pass an examination on Christian Endeavor methods and was awarded the title of Christian Endeavor expert, by the Boston headquarters of the world association.

CANDIDATES TALK AT BREA MEETING

BREA, July 26.—H. S. Hoard of La Habra, Liberty party candidate for congress, was the chief speaker at a meeting held at the Brea theater last evening. E. D. Peterkin presiding. Assemblyman Ted Craig spoke briefly in regard to state problems.

A candidate for supervisor of this district, John Kellenberger, of Anaheim, announced his candidacy and spoke on tax reduction.

Hoard stated that the Liberty party was organized last August. He stated that "Our deplorable condition today is result of our financial system, which robs both producer and consumer. The Liberty party has just one plank and that is to compel congress to live up to the Constitution of the United States, and ask for an honest dollar."

At the close of the evening Ed J. Roads, state chairman of the Liberty party, spoke.

Gets Yellowtail In Anaheim Bay

SEAL BEACH, July 26.—Several fish unusual to the waters off Seal Beach have been caught by anglers here during the past few days. A pier fisherman caught a needle fish, which measured two feet long. This fish had a slender body with a long needle like protuberance, similar to a sword fish.

A six pound yellowtail was landed by a halibut fisherman at Anaheim bay. Old fishermen here claim that this is the first time a deep water fish of this species has ever been caught in the bay.

SPECIAL SERVICE HELD FOR CHILDREN

YORBA LINDA, July 26.—Opening of a junior church was featured at the Yorba Linda Methodist church Sunday morning, when the Rev. Crawford Trotter, pastor, gave a special message to them and demonstrated to them the parable of the talents.

The assistance in the demonstration of the magical trick of making talents disappear and multiply, wrapped in a napkin, were Lois French and June Harwood. A large group of boys and girls attended this service.

Next Sunday the pastor will present each child with a magical trick to take home.

The Rev. Mr. Trotter started training a group of young men in "magic" last night. Those most adept and learning it the most quickly are to assist with the junior church.

JESUS FRIEND OF ALL SAYS YORBA LINDA

YORBA LINDA, July 26.—Friendship and love should be more manifest in human relations today, especially in the home, where actually verbal expression of love and appreciation for each other should be given, the Rev. Joseph Reece, pastor of Yorba Linda Friends church, told members of his congregation Sunday morning in a sermon on the first 11 verses of First Peter.

The Rev. Mr. Reece called attention to Peter, and to his character, which developed from a disposition of inconstancy to one of loyalty and strong faithfulness through personal knowledge of Jesus Christ, as a basis for his sermon.

"Jesus is to us, as He was to Peter, a friend, an elder brother, and a burden bearer," he said, and sketched briefly on those phases of Christianity that bring victory to the individual life.

He said in part: "To what degree do you love Christ? How much do you get of blessing, comfort and help in all your needs and under all conditions? Do you only pray when you find yourself in great need? Do you trust the Lord on the little things of life?"

"If Christ really abides in your heart and life, Jesus is precious and a real friend. If we find His will for us, he becomes our companion and our burden bearer."

"Does Jesus know you? Do you talk with Him, and does He talk with you? Are you acquainted with each other?"

"Jesus rejoices and sorrows with his brothers, and never fails;

Five of the boys were admitted to the Tribe of Gorgonia, the highest honor to be attained in the summer camp.

As a reward for the greatest advancement made in scouting, in a contest which has been going on in the troop over a period of several weeks, Charles Langmade and Vernon Orr Jr. won first honors, a four-day trip to San Francisco. Assistant Scoutmaster Albert Spencer will accompany the boys on the trip.

Vernon Orr Jr., first assistant scoutmaster, is acting scoutmaster because of the illness of Scoutmaster Jack Twist.

SOME SUGGESTIONS FOR STRATEGY BOARDS

The various boards of strategy for the "dry" cause, are meeting from time to time, and are issuing recommendations. The members of the Boards of Strategy should realize that they have these positions as trustees, and there is an obligation to lay aside the personal friendship and prejudice, and vote not as they wish in respect to candidates, but as those candidates represent the principles involved, and their nomination or election will forward the cause.

Through years of experience, leaders have found out some things which should not be lightly set aside. One of these is that in case all of the candidates are "dry," that no recommendation should be made, regardless of personal views. Again, in cases where there is practically no likelihood of a "wet" candidate winning in any case, there should be no recommendation as among the two or more absolute "drys," who are running as candidates. Again partisan politics should not enter into the question whatever. The Boards of Strategy are designed simply to suggest the attitudes which the "drys" should take from a "dry" point of view, and not from a partisan point of view. There should be an avoidance of discrimination against any "dry" candidate in favor of another, if it is possible to do so.

When one is well known to be "dry," and has taken his position there for years, and becomes a candidate for public office, it is neither fair nor right for any group of "drys" to advise their friends to vote against such a candidate, except under such impending danger of a "wet" getting in because of the lack of unity, as will necessitate the uniting upon one candidate. And then it should be done only with full explanation and statement.

The most valuable asset that the "dry" army has is its unity. The nomination and election of no official is of sufficient importance to divide the army. The reasons for this are perfectly obvious. If the candidate is an out-and-out "dry," which means standing openly and frankly for the 18th amendment and its enforcement, there will be no division. And if he doesn't he isn't of sufficient importance to the "dry" army to divide on.

The Register will publish the findings and requests of the Board of Strategy, and it will emphasize that only those candidate should be supported who are standing unequivocally for the 18th amendment, for the enforcement of law, and are qualified for their position.

NEED MEN IN OFFICE AWARE OF NECESSITY FOR REDUCTION

Riverside county has reduced its road tax of 60 cents to 20 cents. The tax in Riverside county apparently has been 20 cents higher than the tax in Orange county. It is generally expected that the tax in this county will not be over 22 cents. It is rather strange, while we are speaking of taxes and the value of the dollar, that in public work we do not seem to be able to take advantage of lower prices as individuals and institutions generally are doing.

New management, new views, new determinations are needed all around to reduce taxes. It must be done through cutting government expenditure. Sometimes men in public office simply know too much about public office, and they know too many reasons why things cannot be done. Improvements, inventions, discoveries have, as a rule, been done by some "fool" who didn't know any better than to try. Henry Ford, Thomas Edison and other like men have said that they had to get rid of men who knew so much that they were mainly giving them reasons why the thing could not be done. We want men in public office today of the other type—men who know it has to be done and propose to do it.

SIGNIFICANT ASPECT OF ELECTION IN TEXAS

The primary election in Texas, in some respects, is quite significant. We can pass by the fact that the people seem to have turned back to the Fergusons, and "Ma" Ferguson, it is indicated, will be Governor of the state.

The significant thing is in respect to prohibition. After all the excitement about prohibition, it would be expected that the voters would go to the polls and register their will upon this question, if nothing else.

As a matter of fact, out of 711,779 votes cast, slightly more than half voted on the question of prohibition at all. Many counties cast no ballots on it; the "drys" paid little attention to it.

We can count on it that the people who do not vote upon a question at all certainly are not greatly dissatisfied with the method which is being taken for its solution. The dissatisfied fellows are always heard from. You can count upon them as you can the sun-rise. Not more than a third of Texas voters would have to change.

LESS WORK BUT WORK FOR MORE

The five-day week has been very definitely put in force by the Federal Department of Labor in Washington. Five thousand employees are affected. Each employee will be charged with one-half day weekly against the 24-day furlough, made necessary by the salary cut ordered by Congress.

This will enable them to employ more workers in the department. It is in harmony with the general spirit of the Federation of Labor and many employers. There is no question but that the week will be cut down in all departments of service. The truth is if all people were employed we could produce in sufficient quantities for all, by working probably not more than three or four days a week and eight or nine hours a day.

CALIFORNIA RECORD GOES TO KANSAS

A child was born in California the other day weighing 15 pounds. This was supposed to be a record. But Kansas City announces that a child born there June 6th weighed 16 pounds. What's the use?

Wasn't it in Kansas City that that smallest baby was born, weighing a little over a pound? Anyhow, Kansas, we beat you on the average.

The German Supreme court rejected the Prussian minister's application for a temporary injunction, and on the question of whether President Von Hindenburg's emergency decree ousting the Prussian minister was legal or not, they reserved opinion till after election next Sunday. But then we shouldn't smile. Public opinion has affected court decisions in this country, unmistakably.

New Biographies For Old

New York Times

When one goes through the books on his shelves, casting out unwanted volumes to make room for new, he is often surprised to find that his literary tastes have changed. In a public library the business of weeding out little-used books reflects the trend in wider preferences. The Newark Public Library reports that the present boom in biography has caused a tremendous upheaval on its shelves. Most of the tomes carried off to a secluded fourth-floor retreat belong to the class described by Lytton Strachey: "Those two fat volumes with which it is our custom to commemorate the dead—who does not know them, with their ill-digested masses of material, their slipshod style, their tone of tedious panegyric, their lamentable lack of selection, of detachment, of design." The biographies taking their place are shorter, livelier, nearer to the novel. They exploit the human qualities of their subject rather than his fame.

Most conspicuous among the missing in the superannuated list are "memoirs and biographies of titled Englishmen who served in Parliament or in the administration of affairs of the Empire." Who was the last plucky soul to plow through six volumes of the "Recollections of a Long Life," by Lord Brougham, before he was trundled off to the upstairs stacks? Royalty went with him in force. The second largest of the retreating companies is there are no more eager inquiries for the life of Dean Hook or of the Rev. J. G. Wood. Savants and military heroes have also slumped. Wellington and Napoleon still hold their inexpensive positions, but General Roeloff Brinkerhoff and Vice Admiral Jahlhoff Brenton have joined the ranks of oblivion.

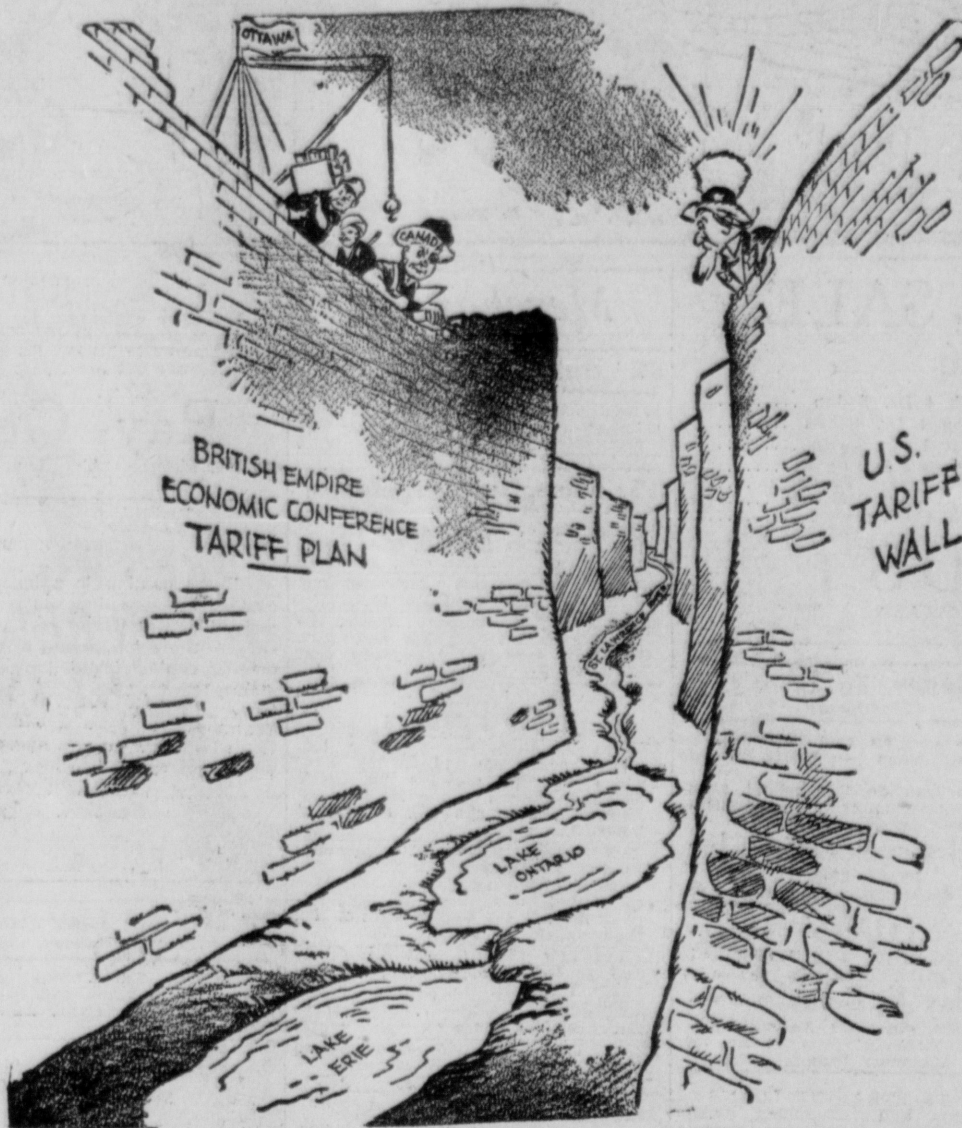

The field of biography has shifted. Before 1900 "a General, a Minister or a pious lady (with title)" was considered a prize. Nowadays the biographer was one eye on his public nose gunning for scientists, captains of industry, "bosses," or indiscreet ladies. Instead of "A Belle of the Fifties, Memoirs of Mrs. Clay of Alabama," we have "Better Left Unsaid," by Daisy, Princess of Plebs. "Orestes H. Brownson's Middle Life" must make way for "The Technique of the new biography runs to debunking or romanticizing, epiced with irony and caustic comment. The writer who has a flair for it can pick his subject where he will. A new biography by Strachey or Guedalla or Maurois is pretty certain to be a one-week book, not renewable.

Foolish Wills That Clutter Up the Records

The San Bernardino Sun reveals an odd practice which seems to be the favorite indoor sport of a number of people. It is to write a will disposing of a vast but purely imaginary fortune. In the musty files in his office are 5000 such documents. One of them was drawn up by a convict who made bequests totaling $1,500,000 to a score of heirs. It took the happy heirs several years to convince themselves it was only a practical joke on them.

Such wills, of course, are a real nuisance. They snarl the legal red tape which is only too easily snarled anyhow. Doubtless some of them set people to squabbling. Perhaps they furnish labor and fees for a few lawyers, but that is inadequate compensation for the general trouble they cause.

More Truth Than Poetry

VIVE LE PRETENDER

Pretenders to a throne of old
Were filled with high-blown pride;
They were extremely proud and cold
All told did they deride.
They wouldn't work, they wouldn't play,
They merely sat around
In idleness from day to day
And hoped they might be crowned.

These loafing wastrels rarely gained
The goals they yearned to win;
Throughout their lifetimes they remained
Outside, and looking in.
They sat around the house and whined
Or grined and walked the floor,
And soon their partisans declined
To help them any more.

But down in Portugal, I learn,
A man who thinks his head
Should sport a crown, is keen to earn
The needful daily bread.
In loafing he finds no romance,
In idleness no charm,
So, while he's waiting for his chance
He runs a chicken farm.

I do not know what may befall
This independent chap;
For the affairs of Portugal
I do not give a rap.
But I will cheerfully admit
He ought to have his fling;
A royalist with that much grit
Would make a first-class king.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

FROZEN ASSETS

The other day I heard a business man say that he had plenty of assets but that they were all frozen.

The great stock of goods that were in storage were no more valuable to him than is a frozen river to a power company, which can use it only in the liquid form needful to the turning of turbines and the creation of energy.

It struck me at the time that we all have frozen assets in the form of latent abilities, which we are too stupid or too lazy to develop.

It is the business—and the aim—of teachers to arouse in their pupils a desire to use abilities such as these.

It seems to be the inclination of the majority of pupils to let them remain frozen.

I do not contend that we are all alike, or that any boy or girl may be an Edison or a Madame Curie.

But I firmly believe that the great majority of people put into less than half the energy they possess.

Many times I have heard expressions of surprise that men of not very high mental calibre have been successful.

This success is rarely attributable to luck. It is due to the determination on the part of those who achieve it to succeed.

That determination leads them to employ every ounce of ability they have, and thus they often outstrip people who have more natural talent.

As far as material progress is concerned a college education is utterly useless if it is allowed to "freeze" as soon as it is stored away in the brain, and remain "frozen" thereafter.

Throw a man into the water, and if he knows how to swim he will use all his assets of muscle to get ashore.

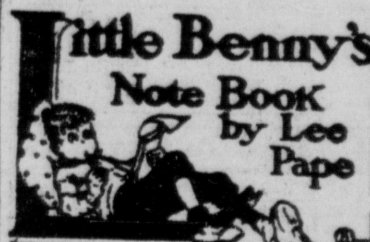

In such a situation he understands the need of putting forth his best efforts.

But put the same man into an office, and though he may lose his job, and perhaps his home and his general happiness if he doesn't get into action all the power his mind can exert, he will often go practically to sleep on the job, and presently discover he is slated for dismissal.

Competition is keener today than it ever was before. There is more education. There are wider opportunities for professional and business training.

It is not safe to allow any assets to freeze, for someone who keeps his thawed out and in action is always ready to jump into the job that the man next to him is neglecting.

Whatever you have of energy and "know how" is needed just now.

After supper pop took his collar off and put his feet up, saying, "Wow, anybody that says this wasn't a hot day is sadly misinformed and grievously mistaken. I knew you'd come home hot and tired, you poor man, and that's why I didn't give the idea a 2nd thaw, ma said."

O, you've been having an idea, pop said, and ma said, "Well, in a sketchy sort of an unformed haphazard way. I mean I happened to be here in the living room this afternoon and it seemed to me that if this middle rug was turned around the opposite way, I mean with the long side where the short side is now, and vice versa, I think it would give a feeling of more space, although of course that would naturally involve moving that heavy sofa off and then moving it on again, and a few details of that sort, and I thought of asking you to turn it for me this evening, and then I thawed. No, he'll be warm and tired after a day in the office in this heat, I'll put the idea out of my head, I thaw, ma said."

An excellent notion, I mean, quashing that idea was a stroke of genius, yee gods I never felt less like shoving furniture and wrestling with rugs in my life, pop said, and ma said, "That's just the way I felt you'd feel and that's just why I perished the thaw. I said to myself, The poor man will be a rock after a day like this, it would only be piling coals on Newcastle to make him move furniture this evening, she said."

It would indeed, pop said, and ma said, "But Willyum, I've often heard it said that there's nothing more refreshing than a change of exercise, I mean such as working your muscles after you've been working your mind all day, for instance, so perhaps after all it might be a welcome change if you got a little physically tired as a relief from being mentally tired."

I believe you're rite, by gollyes I'll try it, I'll try it around at the bowling alley, pop said, and ma said, "Which he did."

In the Long Ago

14 Years Ago Today,
From The Register Files

JULY 26, 1918

Following the suggestion of Edgar Payne, Chicago artist located in Laguna Beach, the village was to have an art gallery and club-rooms in the pavilion of the old Laguna Beach hotel, owned by Joseph Yoch. The pavilion, remodeled and re-decorated, was to be known as the Laguna Art Gallery, and would offer wall space for the work of many famous artists visiting Laguna Beach.

After a complete investigation, Consulting Engineer Homer Hamilton of Los Angeles and County Supervisor J. L. McBride recommended to the board of supervisors that the slope road be built to get around Sulphur Slide in the Santa Ana canyon, in preference to what had been designated as the ridge road. The recommendation was accepted and a committee named to secure the right of way with the hope of having the road under construction by September 15.

Sergeant Anton Segerstrom of the 31st Aero Squadron had left for Indianapolis after a short furlough at his Santa Ana home.

Thoughts On Modern Life

THE PLAGUE OF LISTLESSNESS

I am, as I said yesterday, writing these articles for this week while on tour in the Southwest, and they are inspired by the impressions I have been receiving from hundreds of plain men and women and leaders with whom I have been coming in contact.

One thing that impresses me is that the rank and file of Americans are not today being inspired by any challenging concept of American destiny.

There is everywhere in this Southwest region a distressing listlessness.

As I re-read the sentence I have just written, I doubt that listlessness is an accurate description of the mood I sense.

For there is a grave concern about the American future. There is everywhere evident a growing disillusionment with the political and economic leadership of the time.

So it is not a mood of listlessness that I sense.

What I mean is that nowhere do I sense that alertness and aliveness of the popular mind that one sensed in Japan, let us say, when the whole Japanese nation was setting out on the adventure of Westernizing itself, or that one sensed in Germany when Kaiser Wilhelm II was pulling Germany together in a conscious effort to achieve a German unity and greatness.

Both the Japanese and the German ventures were, in many ways, ill-advised ventures, but there was this about them—the Japanese and German peoples were, for the time, moved by a common and inspiring objective.

There has never been a time in American history when a greater opportunity was offered to leadership to pull the nation together in a vast national adventure.

We do not want our people unified by a gospel of narrow nationalism or by a vicious propaganda of military might.

But the time is ripe to pull this people together in a great crusade, for the realistic adjustment of our political and economic policies to the new forces of science and the machine.

We are in position, with our magnificent machine economy that we have developed, to enter an era of stabilized and widely distributed prosperity, and sooner or later a leadership will emerge that will bind us together in a vast adventure to this end.

BAREFOOT CHILDREN

Let whoever can, go barefoot but be especially tolerant of barefooted children. They need to feel the earth under their bare feet. It cools them, rests their feet, soothes their minds, all at the same time, and without cost. In fact, it saves cost. Think of the shoes and stockings they don't wear out.

Many people are afraid to let the children go barefooted during the summer. They are afraid that the neighbors won't think well of the idea. They don't like to see the dirt on the children's feet. They are afraid of hurts and colds. Almost all of these fears are without cause. The only danger to the children is from the broken glass, sharp stones and the like. But surely one can find a place that is free of rubbish? The garden, the lawn, the meadow, ought to be free of anything that could harm a child's bare foot. The sandy beach should be free of all rubbish so that a child can tread safely on bare feet and get the joy out of feeling the wet sand on his feet.

The chief reason for going barefooted is the feel of it. It feels good. We do not give enough attention to enjoying good feelings. We snuff at the children when they say "cause it feels good." Feelings do not matter, especially when it is children who want to enjoy them. I think it is some remnant of an old conscience against feelings. They are dangerous traps that the senses lay for the soul of mankind. I do not believe a word of that. I believe that the senses are benevolent powers that afford us joy and consequent strength in living.

When you feel the cool grass springing under your bare feet something in you sings and a bit of the load drops off. When the sweet breeze off the sea or the mountain brushes across your face your are soothed and comforted and inspired as though the breath of life had been breathed into you once more. When the perfume of the flowers, the color of the world comes to you a glad feeling rises, within you pulling you up and up beyond the reach of the sordid earth.

These feelings are not to be despised. Rather they are to be cultivated. They are the food of the creative imagination which is the force that makes life beautiful for the human inhabitants of this world. Before you can create you must feel and feeling arises out of the use of the senses. When we ignore a child's craving for pleasant feelings we stunt his spiritual growth. Starving his emotional being leaves him to the mercy of his crude senses, his devouring appetites.

This may seem a long way to go on bare feet but it's because of that long vista, the child's seventy-year long pilgrimage, that I plead with you to give him the power his bare feet generate, to give him the life of spirit that his seeing eyes, his hearing ears, his quivering skin offer to his evolving spirit.

It is one of the mysteries, this way of ours with a child. He comes to us equipped with everything he needs for a happy, successful life and we ignore his equipment and attempt to substitute one of our own manufactured to our order. We have set up a false standard and the result mocks us. Let's get down to the bare earth on our bare feet for a time and feel life from the ground up.
